U. S. ORDERS ITALIAN CONSULATES CLOSED, OFFICIALS REMOVED

ALL AGENCIES OF FASCISTS MUST LEAVE BY JULY 15

Welles at Same Time Instructs American Staffs in Europe to Reject Charges Made Against Them by Axis Powers.

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP).—Closing of all Italian consulates in the United States was ordered by the State Department today, following up similar action against Rome's Axis partner, Germany, earlier this week.

Officers and employes of the Italian consular offices were ordered removed from the United States by July 15 in a note which Under Secretary Welles handed to Prince Ascanio Dei Principi Colonna, the Italian Ambassador. Last Monday, German consuls were ordered removed by July 10.

Today's action was another move in a series of measures and counter measures taken by the United States against the Axis powers and those powers against this country.

"No Desirable Purpose."

The note to Colonna said that continued functioning of the Italian consulates here "would serve no desirable purpose." The earlier note to Germany stated that continued operation of the Reich consulates was inimical to the welfare of the United States.

Since the German consuls were ordered to go home, both Germany and Italy have ordered United States consulates shut in those two countries and the territory they have occupied.

The first of the Axis congulates which this Government closed were those of Italy at Detroit and Newark. The State Department took that action after Italy had closed some United States offices there.

To Reject Charges.

At a press conference, Welles announced that United States embassies in Berlin and Rome had been instructed to make arrangements for the return to this country of all American consular officials and employes in the two countries, but at the same time to reject categorically allegations made against them by the Nazi and Fascist governments.

Besides the Italian consulates, the State Department ordered removal of all agencies and organizations of the Fascist Government, except the Italian Embassy here.

State Department officials said these would include Italian subjects who were employes of the Italian tourist information office, Italian National Institute of Exchange, Italcable, Italian Library of Information, Italian tobacco monopoly, Italian commission for the New York World's Fair, custodian of the Leonardo da Vinci exhibition, and the office of the

GERMANY AND ITALY REACH PACT ON WAR SUPPLIES; 'FORCES PUT IN POSITION'

ROME, June 21 (AP).

AUTHORITATIVE sources said today the war economy of both Italy and Germany had been strengthened in an agreement reached in Berlin which put "armed forces in position to meet new tasks."

The agreement, they said, was reached by committees which met in the last two weeks. Details were kept secret except for the disclosure that they were largely concerned with war supplies.

Economic, financial and monetary problems connected with the Italian-German occupation of Yugoslavia and Greece also were solved, an informant said.

MAN-ON-STREET IN REICH WORRIED OVER ROLE OF U. S.

Older Generation, Remembering Effect of Entry in Last Conflict, Especially Pessimistic.

BERLIN, June 21 (AP). — The Berlin press today still was without a word of comment on the requested closing of United States' consulates in Germany, but the man on the street, nevertheless, was worried and asking whether history would repeat itself.

The older generation, which remembers the effect of United States entry into the World War, especially looked toward the future with pessimism and at the very least abandoned hope that the conflict would be terminated within a reasonable time should the present tension lead to a final rupture of relations between the United States and Germany and should the United States one day join Britain.

While the controlled press gave front page display to stories on the first anniversary of the French-German armistice negotiations and ignored the most important news occupying the minds of the people, Deutsche Diplomatisch-Politische Korrespondenz, Foreign Office mouthpiece, asserted that American consular officials in Germany after the outbreak of European hostilities "adopted an attitude which virtually made them English agents."

Charge of "Bad Manners."

Korrespondenz also charged the United States Government with showing "bad manners" and expressed doubt whether such manners would pay in the long run.

As far as the freezing of German funds in the United States was concerned, Adolf Hitler's newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter, arrived, at the conclusion that the United States had "cut its own flesh." The measure, the paper said, was contrary to all rights and treaties.

The German-American trade treaty of December, 1923, contains unmistakable guarantees, eliminating actions such as now taken by the Roosevelt administration, the newspaper asserted.

German assets in the United States have been reduced to 120,-

NAZI ENVOY GIVEN COPY OF MESSAGE BY ROOSEVELT ON ROBIN MOOR CASE

Welles Says Action Constitutes Formal American Protest Over Sinking — No Further Step Required, Secretary Declares.

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP).—Sumner Welles, Under Secretary of State, announced today that he had transmitted to the German Government a copy of President Roosevelt's message to Congress branding the sinking of the American ship Robin Moor "the act of an international outlaw." The message was sent to Hans Thomsen, German Charge d'Affaires, along with a note which said:

"I am directed by the President of the United States to transmit to you herewith, for the information of your Government, a copy of a message addressed today by the President ot the Congress of the United States.

"Accept, sir, the renewed assurances of my high consideration."

The message, along with a brief message of transmittal, will constitute the formal American protest over the sinking.

"Nothing further is required," Welles said, when asked if it was planned to send a formal note.

Roosevelt in his message interpreted the sinking as "a warning that the United States may use the high seas of the world only with Nazi consent." To such control, he asserted, "we are not yielding and we do not propose to yield."

No Hint of Action.

The President withheld any indication of the means which would be used to make his declaration effective. In this, he adhered to his policy of keeping the Axis leaders guessing.

Speculation here centered on the possibility that the navy might receive orders to patrol the waters sailed by American ships, giving them any protection necessary. Some thought the Atlantic patrol might be instructed to take direct action against any German submarine encountered.

In general, the idea of arming merchant ships was discounted. The speed, mobility and fire power of raiders—surface, sub-surface and aerial—have increased significantly since World War days when gun crews were placed aboard merchant ships.

Nazi Rejection Likely.

Some quarters here believed that, in the event Germany rejected the United States protest, the President's message would furnish the groundwork for some decisive action. And there were few who felt that the Reich, in view of its previous attitude toward the episode, would submit to the demand for reparations.

The Robin Moor, out of New York for South African ports, was

DAMASCUS GIVES UP, IS OCCUPIED BY BRITISH

French Admit Withdrawal From Syrian Capital After Heavy Shelling, Say They Have Taken Up New Positions.

RETREAT TO AVOID FIGHTING IN CITY

Beirut Reports Bombers Inflicted 'Serious Losses' on English Motorized Units Advancing From Iraq Toward Palmyra.

LONDON, June 21 (AP). — The British announced officially in Cairo tonight that Damascus had fallen to their forces penetrating Syria.

This followed a Reuters, British news agency, dispatch from Vichy saying that Damascus had been evacuated by French forces and that British troops had occupied the Syrian capital.

(Vichy earlier had reported Damascus was being heavily shelled by the British and admitted Allied forces had almost surrounded the city.)

Reuetrs said it had inetrcepted a communique broadcast from Beirut, as follows:

"Before enemy pressure and in order to avoid fighting in the suburbs and streets, French troops have evacuated Damascus and our forces have taken up new positions outside the town.

"Strong enemy motorized units coming from Iraq advanced during the day toward Palmyra. They were violently attacked by our bombers, which inflicted serious losses on them."

The British said ancient Damascus was shelled yesterday, after French High Commissioner Gen. Henri Dentz refused to withdraw his troops, and that French military fired back.

(French authorities at Beirut reported the British shelling caused most damage in the Mahajamrene sector of Damascus and that fires were started throughout that quarter of the city).

The Royal Air Force announced British fleet planes had attacked shipping in the harbor of Beirut, Lebanon yesterday, scoring four direct hits on a large Jetty and hitting "a ship believed to have been a submarine." The attack was made, it was said, while R. A. F. flyers were attacking armored fighting vehicles on the DamascuseBirut road, destroying "a considerable number" of vehicles.

A Jerusalem broadcaster told of fierce hand-to-hand fighting between Australian and French troops in houses and streets of Edieda in the Merdjayoun district 40 miles south of Damascus.

NAVY DIVER ATTEMPTS TO GO DOWN TO CRAFT

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., June 21 (AP).—The probability that the sunken submarine O-9 and its crew of 33 dead might be left on the ocean floor, under a compression of 440 feet of water that crumpled the craft's steel shell, was indicated today by Secretary of the Navy Knox.

Returning to the Portsmouth navy yard after an inspection aboard the submarine rescue ship Falcon, 18 miles off shore, Knox said:

"I would say that at that depth it is highly improbable that a salvage attempt would be undertaken."

As he spoke, a navy diver, George Crocker, was still below in the deepest emergency dive ever undertaken in the North Atlantic.

Knox said, in response to questions, that the accident to the 23-year-old O-9, which lay idle for 10 years before it was recommissioned on June 1, would not affect the future use by the navy of the old type of undersea craft.

Died in Line of Duty.

"There is every probability that there is no one alive down there," he said. "These men died—and I assume that they are dead—in a hazardous line of duty."

Knox added that if it was decided that salvage was impossible "some form of service" would be performed over the watery grave.

Knox had voiced almost similar thoughts before leaving for the scene this morning.

At 400 feet the pressure is 176 pounds per square inch. The O-9's hull was said to have been built to withstand the pressure only at 250 feet. So far as navy men can recall, the greatest depth at which successful salvage operations have been conducted was about 300 feet. That was the recovery of the F-4, which went down in a trial run off Hawaii in 1916 with the loss of its crew of 22.

Navy officers said it would take diver Crocker 30 minutes to reach the bottom, that he could work there only five minutes, and he then would require two and a half hours to ascend in easy stages. Afterward a five-hour period in a decompression chamber would be necessary.

That all aboard were dead, officials no longer expressed doubt.

"No Indication of Life."

Rear Admiral Richard Edwards, aboard the Falcon, in a radio message to the Portsmouth navy yard said:

"Have made continuous efforts to communicate but have received no indication of life in submarine."

Four divers were aboard the Falcon, whose position was not far from where the submarine Squalus sank in 240 feet of water May 23, 1939, with a loss of 26 of its crew of 59 men. Twenty-one other divers, flown here from Washington, were on shore, awaiting a call if needed.

Ready to use, if need be, was the diving bell which carried to safety 33 of the men on the Squalus.

Need Attached Line.

Officials explained, however, that the bell or the "Momsen lungs," which the crews of undersea craft carry, could be used only if a line were attached to the wrecked ship.

Men at the scene recalled the terrific struggle the navy had in lifting the Squalus, which lay in only 240 feet of water and was already partially buoyant because its forward compartments were dry. It was possible to attach air pressure hoses to the flooded sections.

When the Squalus, which since has been recommissioned as the Sailfish, finally was pulled months later into the navy yard here, it represented a tremendous salvage job. Time and again the Squalus broke away from the salvagers

EXTENDED ACTIVE DUTY SOUGHT FOR NATIONAL GUARD

War Department Asks President to Recommend That Militia Be Retained Longer Than Year.

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP).—The War Department has recommended that President Roosevelt ask Congress to retain the National Guard on active duty beyond the current single year of service.

Announcing this today, the Department said that "legislation is, of course, required, and the final decision is a matter of public policy which must rest with the President and the Congress."

Without additional Congressional authority, the first of some 290,000 guardsmen now on active service would be demobilized Sept. 16.

Existing legislation stipulates that the guard may not be on active duty more than 15 days a year "except in case of a national emergency declared by Congress."

The War Department's recommendation was said to have been affected by the consideration that demobilization of the National Guard would mean demobilization of 18 of the 33 existing organized divisions of land forces. Aside from the 18 guard divisions, there are nine regular Army infantry divisions, two cavalry divisions and four armored divisions in service or in process of organization.

Official indications were given that the chief executive was expected to act promptly on the recommendation.

The first four divisions of the National Guard and additional units, totaling in all about 65,000 officers and men, were ordered to duty last Sept. 16, the day the selective service bill was signed.

These would be the first demobilized in the event it was decided to release the guardsmen.

COMMAND OF ARMY AIR FORCES UNIFIED

Combat and Service Units to Be Under Only One Officer, Stimson Says.

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP).—Consolidating the Army's mobile general headquarters air force and service branches of the Air Corps into "a single unified organization," designated the "Army Air Force," was announced today by Secretary of War Stimson.

The step was disclosed in a letter to chairmen of the Senate and House Military Affairs Committees in which Stimson voiced vigorous opposition to congressional proposals to make the military air

NAZI CRUISER REPORTED HIT, DAMAGED IN BISMARCK BATTLE

British Claim Prince Eugen Was Set Afire by Dreadnaught's 14-Inch Salvo.

LONDON, June 21 (AP). — The 10,000-ton German cruiser Prinz Eugen was hit and badly damaged by a salvo from the 14-inch guns of the British battleship Prince of Wales before it escaped to Brest in the great naval battle in which the German battleship Bismarck was sunk, it was learned today.

The salvo was said to have set the new German cruiser, raiding partner of the 35,000-ton Bismarck, afire "like a ruddy fireworks show."

It was the battle baptism of the Prince of Wales, 35,000-ton British dreadnaught and sistership of the new King George V.

A cruiser of Germany's Hipper class, believed to be the Prinz Eugen, has been reported by the British at Brest with the 26,000-ton German battleships Gneisenau and Scharnhorst. All have been targets of repeated British air assaults on the Nazi-occupied French port.

Davis has been vice-chairman. He will succeed Clarence A. Dykstra, who was relieved at his request to return to his post as president of the University of Wisconsin.

AFL Strikers Leave Picket Lines To Load Steel on Army Trucks

(Picture in Everyday Magazine).

AFL ironworkers left a picket line this morning to load an army truck with completed materials at the Spuck Iron & Foundry Co., 3145 North Fourteenth street, which has been closed since May 26 by a strike of the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers, Local 518.

Jay Webb, business agent for the local, said he received a telegram yesterday from an officer of the Army Quartermaster Corps at Columbus, O., asking the union to "consider" releasing 12 steel castings for special powder magazine doors, needed at the Madison (Ind.) proving ground.

The union voted approval last night and agreed to comply with any similar request which may be received for removal of completed work at any of the 10 St. Louis steel fabricating firms closed by the strike.

When a truck from Jefferson Barracks, driven by a uniformed soldier, drove up to the plant at 9 o'clock, 20 strikers, some of whom had been on the picket line, loaded it in a few minutes.

Arrangements are being made, Webb said, for removal of a beam for the Naval Reserve hangar under construction at Lambert-St. Louis Field, completed at the same plant before the strike started.

Later today, striking members of the same union at the Columbia Iron Works, Inc., 4254 Vista, helped load structural beams ordered for the Army Quartermaster Depot at Jeffersonville, Ind. A private hauling company's truck was used.

Last week, before consulting the union, Scott Field officers sent an army truck through a picket line to remove some completed steel sewage gratings from another of the closed plants, the Kayaing Iron Works, 2701 North Twenty-fifth street. Pickets did not interfere.

Test of Concrete 'Planks' Indicates They Might Replace Steel in Ships

PHILADELPHIA, June 21 (AP).—Concrete tankers and merchant ships as strong and light as steel were envisioned by engineers today after a test of a new type vacuum-dried concrete containing a special variety of steel reinforcement.

Two "planks" of the material 12 feet long and two and a half inches thick were tested in a steel-jawed machine at the University of Pennsylvania, a load of 5890 pounds bending the center of one five inches out of line before the concrete began to crack.

Karl P. Billner, inventor, and several of the university engineers calculated that this imposed a compressive stress within the tissue of the concrete of 12,500 pounds a square inch.

A second plank of slightly different construction withstood a compressive stress of 15,000 pounds and was bent eight inches, springing back to within one and a half inches of its original line as the pressure was released.

Dr. Theodore Crane, professor of architectural engineering at Yale University, said that concrete structures ordinarily are designed to permit compressive stresses of 650 to 900 pounds a square inch.

As the concrete forms can be removed 15 minutes after the material is poured, the inventor said it would be possible to build ship hulls rapidly, a 10,000-ton tanker being constructed of concrete in four weeks, contrasted to several months for steel.

NAZI PACT SAID TO BAR TURKISH AID TO RUSSIA IN WAR WITH REICH

Foreign Source in London Asserts Secret Clause Calls for Benevolent Neutrality, May Seal Dardanelles.

LONDON, June 21 (AP). — A reliable foreign source said today the German-Turkish treaty contained a secret clause binding Turkey to benevolent neutrality in the event of war between Germany and Soviet Russia.

The clause, which probably would bar the Dardanelles to Russian war or supply ships if the Soviet Union fought Germany, was said by this source to have been forced on Turkey by "terrific German pressure, like the rest of the declaration of German-Turkish friendship."

The source said he was told by well-placed informants that Germany insisted on the Turkish pact as a prelude to what he called "big moves" in Eastern Europe involving Russia.

To Insure Eastern Frontiers.

These moves were said to be regarded by the Germans as necessary to insure their eastern frontiers against trouble and to leave them free to direct a "death blow" against England.

Highly-placed sources in London have said they expect a German effort to land such a blow within the next three months.

If the Dardanelles, the narrow strait between the Mediterranean and Black seas, were sealed against the Russians they would lose their readiest connection with Britain, a possible ally of the Soviet in any Russian-German war.

This would isolate Britain from Russia, in fact, except by difficult land connections through the Middle East and by sea through the Arctic.

Issue in Balance.

He said the issue of war or a peace pact between Germany and Russia is hanging in the balance and added that the likelihood of war had increased as a result of the German-Turkish pact.

A clique of German leaders, headed by Reichsmarshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering and some generals, which favors war as the only way to gain the full benefits of Russian industry and agriculture, is in the ascendancy in Germany, this source asserted.

In its view, he said, conquest of the U. S. S. R. would be little more difficult than the swift subjection of Poland.

He said Hitler had made demands on Russia so severe that Joseph Stalin would scarcely dare accede for fear of internal revolution.

Russian circles in London, which admit they have been out of close touch with Moscow for some time because of communication problems, insist that German-Russian relations remain in a friendly status quo.

SHOWDOWN WITHIN DAYS IS PREDICTED

ANKARA, June 19 (Delayed) (AP).—A fighting showdown between Germany and Soviet Russia in "days, not weeks" unless Russia makes drastic economic concessions was predicted today by a military attache of one of the Axis-aligned nations mobilizing alongside the Nazis.

Soviet diplomatic sources in Turkey asserted meanwhile that Germany's reported demands for control of Russian grain and oil production would be impossible to grant. They added that the Red army was not afraid of a test of strength with the Nazis.

All along the frontier troops are on the march, repeated reports reaching here indicated. Finland yesterday called reservists to arms. Axis satellites Rumania, Hungary and Slovakia have been reported placed on a virtual war footing, with demobilized reservists recalled to the colors and towns given precautionary blackout instructions.

Against this gathering weight of men and arms, it was said here, the Red army has been moving into its central defense zone—from Kiev in the Ukraine to Minsk, back of the old Russian-Polish frontier.

Evacuation of Women, Children From Moscow Indicated.

HELSINKI, June 21 (AP).—Dispatches in the Finnish press from Russia indicated today that women and children perhaps are being evacuated to some extent from Moscow and other large cities as well as from some Lithuanian towns.

MORE TROOPS FOR AZORES

LISBON, Portugal, June 21 (AP). —More soldiers left yesterday for the Azores on a troopship to reinforce the islands which Portugal told the United States it was determined to defend.

A hospital and supply ship, on the way to the Grank Banks to join the cod fishing fleet, dropped anchor at Horta to land a detachment of Portuguese marines and strengthen the guard of the naval base.

King Peter in London, Expected To Set Up Government in Exile

KING PETER

LONDON, June 21 (AP).—Accompanied by his Prime Minister and other ministers, 17-year-old King Peter II of conquered Yugoslavia arrived in England at 4:45 a. m. today and it was understood the Yugoslav government in exile would be established in London.

The party, traveling by plane, was greeted by the Duke of Kent, brother of King George VI of England.

The youthful monarch, who had been reported to be in Jerusalem since he fled Yugoslavia in April before the crushing might of the German military machine, had assumed his throne in a military coup d'etat on March 27, when the Government which signed up with the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo Axis was ousted.

The coup, engineered by Gen. Dusan Simovic, ended a regency which had ruled for Peter since the assassination of his father, Alexander I, at Marseille, France, Oct. 9, 1934, but the young King's reign in his own country lasted barely three weeks before the German army forced him to leave.

British sources earlier had reported that the Yugoslav Government had been re-established somewhere in the Middle East, presumably in Jerusalem, since he later was reported there.

One of his Cabinet members was said to have been killed during the hazardous flight from Athens to Jerusalem.

after being partially lifted, and plunged back to the bottom. The water pressure at the O-9's depth is about double that at which the Squalus sank.

Outside Swept Area.

The O-9 is believed to lie two-tenths of a mile outside the swept area, which is cleared for submarine dives. Officials said this region probably would be swept too.

President Roosevelt, who kept in touch with the Navy Department in Washington during the night, was told that the navy "was not optimistic" about the situation.

The 172-foot O-9—victim in New England's fourth submarine accident—went into its deep trial dive at 7:56 o'clock yesterday morning, and the search got underway two hours later when a smoke bomb distress signal came to the surface.

Contact with the O-9 finally was made by four submarines, running abreast up and down the area. Then small boats were put over to sweep grapnels across the spot marked by buoys dropped by the submarines.

Certainty that the O-9 lay below came when a piece of wooden deck was picked up. It was labeled "9-P-7," showing that it was the seventh section on the port side of the O-9.

At Southwest Harbor, Me., Edward Ellsberg, long a navy submarine salvage expert, expressed belief that the O-9's officers and men probably died before their undersea craft struck bottom.

"Under no conceivable circumstances could the O-9 stand any such pressure as that," he said.

The O-9, he said, was completed in 1918 but its design is a little older than that.

Ellsberg won the navy's Distinguished Service Medal for raising the S-51 off Block Island in 1925, directed salvage of the S-4 some years later and acted as an observer in the salvage operations after the submarine Squalus went down off Portsmouth two years ago.

O-9 COMMANDER WAS ON RESCUE SHIP

The commander of the O-9 was Lieut. Commander Howard J. Abbott, who has a wife and two children. He was born in Des Moines, Ia., May 21, 1910.

He was attached to the destroyer Peary, serving in the United States Asiatic fleet from 1933 to 1936. He was aboard the Peary when that ship rescued the passengers and crew from the wrecked steamer Silver Hazel, in San Bernardino Straits, Philippine Islands, in November, 1935. Lieut. Abbott's address in 1937 was Osceola, Ia.

Lieut. Commander Abbott is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Abbott of Osceola, Ia.

Abbott ,former postmaster and retired pulisher, said, "We are living ni hope."

Mrs. Abbott first heard of the accident as she sat listening to a radio broadcast. When the number of the boat was announced, she knew her son was aboard, before she heard his name. The submarine commander is married and has two children.

The other officers aborad the O-9, Ensign M. P. Wangsness, a navy reservist, was born on Aug. 29, 1913, in Garretson, S. D. His residence is San Diego, Cal.

Homing Pigeon Eight Years Late.

NEW YORK, June 21 (AP). — It took eight years, but a homing pigeon has found its way back to the Bronx Zoo. The bird was taken to Washington on Sept. 24, 1933, and released. It was not seen until yesterday, when Joe Gerben, the zoo's pigeon man, saw it wheel overhead and finally land atop the aviary, where its cote used to be.

R. A. F. POUNDS INVASION COAST; HEAVY FIGHTING

British Report Destroying 24 Nazi Planes in Two Attacks, Admit Loss of Four.

NEW YORK, June 21 (AP).—A Berlin broadcast reported today that 25 British planes—including at least two Bristol-Blenheim bombers—were shot down and that five German planes were missing in cross-channel air fighting today. The broadcast, heard here, said the British dropped bombs in Nazi-occupied territory but caused only slight damage.

LONDON, June 21 (AP).—The Air Ministry announced tonight that at least 24 German fighter planes had been shot down during two Royal Air Force sweeps over Northern France today.

The British acknowledged the loss of one bomber and three of their own fighters in the operations, which began early and continued late into the evening.

In the big attacks British fighters accompanied heavy bombers which struck at the "invasion ports" of the German-held coast. They roared out over the channel in waves and their bombs exploded on enemy targets with earth-shattering reverberations felt on the English side.

United States army and navy observers called the offensive "the most striking demonstration yet of increased R. A. F. strength."

The forays have two objectives, informed sources said, continued pounding of German-held bases and ports in Northern Europe, and a campaign of attrition against the Luftwaffe.

For the tenth straight night, British bombers flew over Germany and the Nazi-held French coast last night, dropping bombs on the naval base at Kiel and on docks at Dunkerque and Boulogne, the Air Ministry announced.

A German patrol vessel was sunk by bombs off Den Helder, The Netherlands, yesterday, it was said.

From these operations one plane failed to return, the British reported.

German air activity over Britain last night was described as scattered and light. No casualties were reported.

7 VESSELS SUNK IN ATLANTIC, NAZIS SAY

BERLIN, June 21 (AP).—Six British merchantmen and a catapult plane-equipped auxiliary cruiser—all together 52,900 tons of shipping—were sunk by submarines recently in the North Atlantic, the German high command announced today.

It reported that bombers, attacking last night off the Humber estuary, sank a 6000-ton freighter and damaged two other large merchant vessels.

Raids by the luftwaffe also were directed against the harbor at Grimsby, at port facilities of Yarmouth and at airports in the Midlands and Eastern England, the high command said. This was the third successive day that Yarmouth was mentioned as a target.

Workshops of a Scottish light metal plant at Fort William were destroyed by heavy bombs, the command said. Other reports said an aluminum plant in South England was demolished.

Several towns in Northwest Germany, unimportant militarily and economically, were raided by the Royal Air Force last night, DNB, official news agency, said. High explosive bombs and incendiaries killed and injured a number of civilians and caused immaterial damage to apartment buildings, it added. One attacking bomber was reported shot down over the North Sea.

In daylight yesterday a German bomber was said to have scored a hit on a 4000-ton ship at the mouth of the Humber.

Finding of Submarine Flashed In Navy Code to Rescue Vessels

By ALEX SINGLETON

ABOARD THE SUBMARINE RESCUE SHIP FALCON, off Portsmouth, N. H., June 21 (AP).—United States navy blinkers suddenly began to send spots of light across the swelling dark waters. From ship to ship, drawn up in half moon formation around the submarine rescue ship Falcon, flashed a swift code message.

The hoarse cries of rescue workers could be heard from aboard submarines and smaller boats, undertoned by the rumble of creaking drag chains.

The sunken submarine O-9, a tomb for 33 officers and men trapped under tons of pressure at a depth of 440 feet, finally had been found.

Only after another grappling line had been hooked on to the submarine, after the sun had risen, were newspaper men permitted aboard this vessel. Then Rear Admiral Richard S. Edwards, commander of submarines in the Atlantic fleet, allowed an Associated Press reporter and photographer to clamber over the side for his first interview.

Unshaven and weary, he acknowledged with obviously grim reluctance that hope for the officers and men of the O-9 had faded almost to the vanishing point.

"We have grappled hooks to her," he said; "there is no indication of life aboard her."

That, despite the fact that constant listening posts were maintained from the moment contact was made with the O-9—manned by men with special undersea sound devices—men who strained their ears for the sound of hammers clanking against steel sides 400-odd feet below.

"Probably crushed," the Admiral commented tersely, a bit later.

"We never give up hope as long as there is any possible chance," he said, "but I don't think there is any hope."

Aboard the Falcon, the crew, silent and unsmiling, was kept busy coiling rope and putting in order, with routine navy meticulousness, the mass of salvage equipment stored on the decks.

Navy officials appeared none too optimistic over the possibility of salvage.

Commander A. R. McCann, inventor of the rescue chamber which gave life to 33 survivors of the submarine Squalus when it sank near here two years ago, explained that while divers had gone to 400 feet before, the greatest difficulty at such a depth was the failure of light to penetrate.

On the scene was special lighting equipment to improve the divers' vision, but McCann expressed uncertainty that it would prove sufficient.

Samples of the mud already have been taken from the bottom, showing it to be of the muddy clay consistency into which the Squalus partly buried itself when it carried 26 men to their deaths.

Admiral Edwards emphasized that this was not the O-9's first dive since its reconditioning. He said that it had been put through its paces in shallow water off New London, Conn., and had come here for what is known as a deep submergence test—a gradual descent to determine defects, if any.

Nazi Envoy Given Robin Moor Message

Congressional comments on the message varied. Senator Byrnes (Dem.), South Carolina, said, "I heartily subscribe to the view of the President." Representative Knutson (Rep.), Minnesota, characterized it as "a curtain raiser for a declaration of war."

Senator Pepper (Dem.), Florida, a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, expressed hope the message would "shock the Congress and the country into an awareness of how this Nazi monster is clutching closer and closer at our throats."

Senator Gerald P. Nye (Rep.), North Dakota, in Minneapolis, said:

"I don't think the incident called for such attitude or such language as was used by the President.

"The President is still trying to build up a national psychology that will enable him to go further along the course he has mapped out."

Representative Eaton (Rep.), New Jersey, a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, saw the President's utterance as "a sound American message," though, "of course, it is one more step into a great tragedy."

Senator O'Mahoney (Rep.), Wyoming, told reporters Roosevelt's demand for reparation indicated realistically "that the President is recognizing the conditions which exist in the world and is announcing a firm policy of maintaining our right, but is not asking that we declare war."

Ultimate Issue in Hands of America, London Paper Says.

LONDON, June 21 (AP).—Commenting on President Roosevelt's Robin Moor message, the newspaper Daily Express said today "clearly this sort of undeclared war cannot go on without reaching a breach."

Lord Beaverbrook's newspaper continued: "Although Roosevelt does not reveal his plans, it is easy to surmise what he will do. He will not see American ships like the Robin Moor sunk with impunity. . . . He will protect his ships. . . ."

Other papers gave smash play to the message and editorial comment expressed approval.

"Clearly the new world balance is shaping rapidly under the hands of the United States," the Daily Telegraph said.

"As this fateful struggle advances to its climax it is for the words of the President of the United States that the world waits most anxiously. It is in American hands and not those of the dictators that the ultimate issue lies.

"It means that 'the resources of civilization' . . . are still in the keeping of the democracies and not of the totalitarians."

The Daily Sketch said that "even the wildest Berlin optimists can have no illusions about where the great American nation stands today. Mr. Roosevelt's message to Congress on the sinking of the Robin Moor is his most bitter and his most biting pronouncement.

"History will probably see this solemn warning to Nazidom as the beginning of the end of the gospel of international murder, robbery and trickery."

70 Pct. of Robin Moor Cargo Contraband, Wheeler Says

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP).

CONGRESSIONAL opponents of United States intervention in the European conflict view President Roosevelt's message yesterday on the Robin Moor sinking as merely another and not unexpected step toward war.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler (Dem.), Montana, leader of the noninterventionist group, asserted:

"The President did not say anything new. It was just another bitter and warlike diatribe against Germany. No one can defend German treatment of the survivors. It was cruel—but the President did not tell the American people that 70 per cent of the Robin Moor cargo was contraband of war, and, as such, was subject to seizure or destruction by belligerents.

"It's cargo was 70 per cent contraband—contraband according to German lists, contraband according to English lists, and contraband according to American lists of the last war. It was apparent that the President was trying to arouse the war spirit of the American people."

Italian commercial counselor in New York City.

News Agency Excepted.

Stefani, the official Italian news agency, was not among the organizations named to be closed. It is not registered at the State Department as an agency of the Italian Government.

An official State Department compilation showed 105 Italians will definitely be requested to leave the United States as a result of the order. Thirty-three are consular officers, 57 are consular employes and 15 are listed as miscellaneous employes, probably of official organizations.

At the same time it was stated that a final decision will be made later in regard to 37 others who are Italian-Americans, presumably with dual nationality, whose status may be affected by the expulsion order. In that category are 22 consular officers, 50 consular employes and 15 miscellaneous employes.

Text of Note.

The text of the note, handed to Ambassador Colonna, said:

"Excellency:

"I have the honor to inform your excellency that the President has directed me to request that the Italian Government promptly close all Italian consular establishments within United States territory and remove therefrom all Italian consular officers, agents, clerks and employes of Italian nationality. In the opinion of the Government of the United States, it is obvious that the continued functioning of Italian consular establishments in territory of the United States would serve no desirable purpose.

"I am likewise directed to request the closing of all agencies in this country connected with the Italian Government, together with the cessation of their activities, and, furthermore, the removal of all Italian nationals in any way connected with organizations of the Italian Government in the United States, with the exception of its duly accredited representation in Washington.

"It is contemplated that all such withdrawals and closures shall be effected before July 15, 1941.

"Accept, Excellency, the renewed assurances of my highest consideration."

PERFECT BREAK CREATED—GAYDA

ROME, June 21 (AP).—Virginio Gayda, authoritative Fascist spokesman, declared today that Washington had "created a perfect break" between the United States and the Axis Powers, which meant "continental Europe."

"An economic war and a partial diplomatic war between the two continents has already opened," he wrote in the newspaper Il Giornale D'Italia, of which he is the editor.

Describing June as "undoubtedly a month of notable political clarificatoins," Gayda said "everything which may still happen between Europe and the United States is the exclusive responsibility of the American Government, which has taken the initiative of unprovoked aggression and has carried it boldly to the present advanced limit."

'Insidious Distinction.'

Gayda said the first clarification was in relations between the United States on one side and Germany and Italy on the other, citing the freezing of credits and measures for the closing of consulates "without pausing at the insidious distinction by Washington between Italy and Germany."

"Europe no longer will be a base of operations for American citizens and consular officials whose presence and often insidious work Italy and Germany have tolerated."

The second clarification, Gayda said, was the German-Turkish nonaggression pact, which he described as confirming Turkey's independence from Britain, whose attempts to "drag Turkey against Italy and the Axis" had failed.

"Now it is specified that Turkey will not intervene, directly or indirectly, in the conflict beside England against the Axis Powers. Assured of her national position, Turkey assures the Axis liberty of action in the war against England in the Eastern Mediterranean and Black Sea."

The third clarification was listed as Axis occupation and "transformation" of all Danubian and Balkan territory "withdrawn from the intrigues and possibilities of Anglo-Saxon policy."

The editor asserted that the President was violating international regulations in supplying Britain with arms and munitions and was "deliberately going in search of war against the Axis Powers."

Another Fascist newspaper, Il Popolo Di Roma, said Americans were speaking ambiguously with the intention to "wait and see what developments the situation will take."

Fascist political circles insisted calm prevailed. They termed the President's speech an attempt to hold Germany and Italy responsible for developments in the worsening situation between the United States and the Axis Powers.

SENATE COMMITTEE TO DELAY RADIO HEARING TWO WEEKS

Chairman Wheeler Says Interval Will "Give Both Sides Time to Cool."

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP). —Chairman Wheeler (Dem.), Montana, said today the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee would "give both sides time to cool" while it delayed for two weeks further hearings on a proposal to investigate the Communications Commission and broadcasting in general.

The committee concluded a series of hearings yesterday with testimony of four radio station operators in opposition and one in support of the commission's new rules affecting broadcasting.

Wheeler said the committee would resume its investigation of the new regulations about July 7, when Chairman James L. Fly of the commission is expected to testify in rebuttal to some of the charges made against the board.

URUGUAY TO LET AMERICAN NATIONS USE PORTS IF AT WAR

Countries in Hemisphere Fighting Foreign Powers Will Not Be Considered as Belligerents.

MONTEVIDEO, June 21 (AP).—Uruguay announced yesterday it would not consider any American countries warring against foreign powers as belligerents and would permit United States and other American warships to use Uruguayan harbors if war spreads to the Western Hemisphere.

Uruguay, the first South American nation to make such an announcement, took similar action in the World War.

It notified all other American nations of the action and proposed that they act similarly under the Panama and Havana accords.

American diplomats here said the Uruguayan initiative would be accepted by almost all the nations on the continent and that it may "possibly obtain authority to make a collective declaration."

18,731 CAPTURED IN CRETE

BERLIN, June 21 (AP).—A total of 13,123 British and 5608 Greek prisoners have been taken in the conquest of Crete, according to figures issued here today.

This is 3000 more men than given in the high command's summary last week but since then the occupation forces have been combing the mountainous island.

'ROOSEVELT MADE SPEECH, MARKET FELL TWO POINTS,' IS ONLY BERLIN COMMENT

BERLIN, June 21 (AP).

A GERMAN spokesman commented today on President Roosevelt's message to Congress on the sinking of the Robin Moor: "Mr. Roosevelt made a speech and the stock market fell two points."

So far, that was the only authorized observation on the address.

A spokesman said last night that the message had been carefully noted, but declined to comment on it.

000,000 marks ($48,000,000), Bogbachter said, while American holdings in Germany were estimated at 1,700,000,000 marks ($680,000,000).

"It is absolutely clear," the paper continued, "that there is nothing left for us to do but retaliate. The only difference is that American business must bear incomparably higher losses, thanks to Roosevelt's measure."

"The American Meddler."

The newspaper Boersen Zeitung, commenting on the Turkish-German friendship pact, struck at what it called President Roosevelt's "policy of intervention."

After Bulgaria, Yugoslavia, Greece, Portugal, Ireland and France, "the Roosevelt policy of intervention into affairs of the Old World suffered another defeat in the Turkish area," it commented. "The new Europe arranges its affairs without the help of the American meddler."

Korrespondenz observed that "with the liquidation of the American consulates in Germany and Italy and territories occupied by them, Americans are withdrawn from the greatest part of the European continent."

"Perhaps," the commentary added, "the Americans regard this as a diplomatic success. The British intelligence service will find the withdrawal less ingenious. And also, those Americans who recall out of their history books that Europe isn't synonomous with England perhaps will reflect whether the bad manners of the American Government will pay in the long run."

On Consulate Activities.

The activities of the American consulates in gathering information reach "to such an extent that a clearing house in Washington became necessary" to transmit incoming telegraphic reports to the British embassy, it was asserted.

"Even neutral observers," the commentary went on, "noticed that certain events in Germany—for example damaged caused by British air attacks on individual houses or city districts—could be commented upon shortly afterward by the British radio.

"Every rumor, even the most stupid, was seized upon by American consular agents without knowing the facts and guided into the channels of anti-German propaganda."

United States consulates in Germany and German-occupied countries, on instructions from Washington, ceased today giving visas except in extraordinary cases specifically approved by Washington.

AMERICANS ABROAD PREPARE TO LEAVE

By DAVID M. NICHOL

The Chicago Daily News—Post-Dispatch Special Radio. Copyright, 1941.

BERN, June 21. — President Roosevelt's blunt declarations to Congress yesterday about the Robin Moor have started preparations for an exodus, if it is still possible, of the few Americans who remain in Europe.

German-American relations, which have rapidly worsened in the last week, continue to share the interest today, in the newspapers of neutral Switzerland, with the still confused situation along the German-Russian border.

The strain on relations between the United States and Germany has reached almost unbelievable limits. The Berlin correspondent of the Neue Zuercher Zeitung said that such tension had seldom been reached before in history without an actual rupture.

The problems of Americans who remain in Berlin are not easy. Officially, there has been no obstacle placed in the way of their exit but there need be none. Visa applications have already been "lost" for weeks at a time, or simply delayed with no other explanation. If it is permitted, there will literly soon be a general exodus of reporters from the country, most of whom for weeks have been limited to little more than the forwarding of official bulletins.

An actual rupture would produce administrative problems and sideline tragedies far beyond the considerable scope of United States interests. For one thing, the consulates, which have already been ordered closed, offered almost the last avenue of escape for the Jews and the Poles and other refugees. What will be the immediate status of visa applicants, so long as relations continue at all, is not clear here.

Interests which the United States has been representing in Germany and the occupied countries are still another problem. The staff in the old Bluecher Palace, which houses the American embassy, or the Pariser Platz in Berlin, has done nothing for the last year except visit prison camps, forward funds to internees and otherwise look after the mass of details which any such dislocation produces.

AFL MEN REJECT NEW PLEA TO END SHIPYARD STRIKE

Union Council Refuses to Accept Order by International Head, Who Declares Aid Will Stop.

LOCAL AGENT SAYS IT'S UP TO WORKERS

Asserts Executive Board Can't Yield to Requests Until Members Decide to Go Back.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 21 (AP).—AFL machinists rejected today an ultimatum from their international president and for the second time refused his demand that they return to work in struck shipyards.

International President Harvey W. Brown had told the Local 68 Executive Board he was ordering termination of the strike at midnight tonight. He said he was acting on authority of the International Executive Council. He ordered picket lines discontinued and said strike donations from the international would be stopped.

The order was turned down by the Executive Board after more than four hours of bitter wrangling.

"Up to the Members."

As the meeting broke up, early this morning, Harry Hook, business agent of the local, issued a statement on behalf of the Executive Board asserting that it "has no authority to concur in the action of the International Executive Council or comply with their request to disestablish picket lines.

"It is the position of the Executive Board of Lodge No. 68 that that status of the strike is unchanged until such time as the membership takes other action. Under no condition does the local lodge Executive Board agree for our members to return to work in the struck shop without permission of the lodge."

Shipyards involved are operated by the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, United Engineering Co., General Engineering Co., Columbia Machinery Co. and the Matson Navigation Co.

As to Bethlehem.

Brown, referring to the AFL machinists' fight for union recognition at Bethlehem, promised that the grand lodge would co-operate with the local union in getting speedy settlement if Bethlehem fails to comply with the findings and recommendations of the National Defense Mediation Board to sign the master agreement."

The agreement referred to was reached between the AFL Metal Trades Department and West Coast ship builders. All 39 major coast yards with the exception of Bethlehem signed it. It provides union shop conditions and forbids strikes or lockouts.

The AFL machinists here rejected the contract. They objected to getting time and a half instead of their customary double pay for overtime work and struck when the contract reductions were enforced.

The union has a membership of about 1200. The council is composed of representatives of the various CIO unions in the city.

Union Quits Seattle CIO Council, Says It Obstructs Defense.

SEATTLE, June 21 (AP).—The CIO-International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union local announced last night that it had voted to withdraw from the CIO-Seattle Industrial Union Council because "the council constantly seeks to obstruct national defense, tolerates Communism, and encourages Communist members. . . ."

The union has a membership of about 1200. The council is composed of representatives of the various CIO unions in the city.

G. O. P. Chief Martin Here to Learn Some Pointers From Party Victory

—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

"I Want to See How They Did It," National Chairman Says of His Conferences With City Republican Leaders.

Congressman Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts, minority floor leader and chairman of the Republican National Committee, is in St. Louis today studying the political strategy that won for local Republicans in the hope of picking up some pointers for use in the national 1942 congressional races and in the 1944 presidential campaign.

Describing the defeat of the Democratic city administration by local Republicans as "the most encouraging thing that has happened to our party this year," Martin told reporters he wanted to confer with city and county organization leaders "to see how they did it."

The short, bushy-browed chairman arrived from Washington by plane yesterday afternoon and went immediately to City Hall, where he was greeted by Mayor William Dee Becker, Comptroller Louis Nolte and several department heads and Republican committeemen. He was then taken by Barak T. Mattingly, Republican National Committeeman for Missouri, to a reception at the Statler Hotel, where he shook hands with scores of party workers and made a brief address.

"I just dropped into your city informally on my way to Bloomington, Ill., where I'm to speak Monday night," he said in his talk, "but I want to speak to as many of you as possible to see how you won those splendid victories—in the Governorship last November and the city election in April.

"We've been a little weak in the cities, but I believe we're gaining strength there, and the city election victory in St. Louis was truly inspiring to the whole party. There's a distinct trend toward the G. O. P., in my opinion, and that's fortunate. The country needs a strong, vigilant and virile minority party to see that the great powers being given to the President in the war emergency are returned to the people when the emergency is over."

Earlier, Martin said in an interview that his party still is concerned with the mounting national debt and wants to see non-defense expenditures cut as much as possible.

In concluding the interview, Martin, who will leave St. Louis at noon tomorrow, said he doesn't want to be President.

Asked about reports that he would be backed by many party members for President in 1944, he said: "Me? No, sir. Not me. I really don't want to be President and never did. Wouldn't take the job." He smiled. "You know something? Maybe I get along with all factions of my party so well because they know that."

U. S. COLLECTOR'S AID IS ACCUSED OF THEFT

Joseph A. Sheppard, Suspended Deputy, Said to Admit Embezzling $400.

Joseph A. Sheppard, a suspended deputy internal revenue collector in the Social Security Division, is charged with forging an indorsement on a $47 refund check and embezzling that amount from the Government in a warrant issued today by United States Commissioner John A. Burke.

Assistant United States Attorney Herbert H. Freer, on whose complaint the warrant was issued, said Sheppard had admitted peculations totaling about $400.

The deputy, who is married and has two children, was quoted by Freer as having told internal revenue officials that he had "got in the hands of loan sharks and was pressed for payments." Sheppard was suspended two weeks ago after a $7 error in a refund led to an investigation of his accounts.

Freer related that the investigation disclosed Sheppard, instead of sending refund checks to taxpayers, forged indorsements, cashed the checks and then followed the same procedure with other checks, using the proceeds to buy postal money orders to pay the taxpayers entitled to refunds in the first instances.

The peculations were discovered, Freer continued, after a taxpayer received a money order for an amount $7 less than that to which he knew he was entitled as a refund. He communicated with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue at Washington, stating he had received the erroneous refund by money order. The Government makes such refunds by check, not by money order.

Sheppard had been an internal revenue employe for more than two years, Freer said.

$74 FILLING STATION HOLDUP

Undetermined Amount Taken in Liquor Store Robbery.

Elmer Dunnigan, attendant at a filling station at 4216 Natural Bridge avenue, was held up early today by two men who took $74.

An amount so far undetermined was taken by two men who last night held up Arthur Berkemeyer, clerk, and Raymond McKinney, 2159 College avenue, a customer, in a Happy Hollow liquor store, 3900 West Florissant avenue.

GETS 18 MONTHS FOR DEATH OF TWO MEN IN HOSPITAL

Attendant Admits Striking and Mistreating Patients, One 62, the Other, 69.

PHILADELPHIA, June 21 (AP).—Pleading guilty of involuntary manslaughter in the death of two Philadelphia State Hospital inmates, former attendant Russell E. Brough was sentenced to 18 months' imprisonment by Judge Byron A. Milner who commented:

"Attendants at an institution of this type have a right to use a reasonable amount of force to protect themselves and to maintain discipline and sanitation, but not the right to kill a man."

Brough interrupted his trial yesterday to admit striking the blow which resulted in a cerebral hemorrhage fatal to Paul Hollowell, 62 years old. He also admitted mistreatment contributed to the death of William J. Williamson, 69.

4474 VOLUNTEER IN DAY FOR NEW YORK AIR RAID DUTY

NEW YORK, June 21 (AP).—Executives and housewives, clerks and mechanics flocked to police stations yesterday on the first day of registration to volunteer as air-raid wardens.

By midnight 4474 applicants—649 of them women—were fingerprinted and registered. The city is seeking 62,000 volunteers.

Selection of 152 zone wardens—each responsible for the safety of 50,000 persons in his area—is expected to be completed today. Later, zones will be divided into sectors representing 5000 persons, which in turn will be broken down into posts of 500. There will be 15,086 posts, each served by a minimum of four wardens.

G. J. DIETZ GETS CITY JOB

George J. Dietz, city supply commissioner under former Mayor Victor J. Miller, was appointed deputy supply commissioner yesterday to succeed Harry M. Dryer, who has held the position for eight years under the Democratic administration. The salary is $4000 a year. Dryer's resignation was requested by the newly appointed Supply Commissioner William R. Orthwein.

Dietz served as supply commissioner from 1925 to 1929, when he was not reappointed by former Mayor Miller as the result of a political dispute. Miller charged that Dietz's wife, who long has been an active worker in Republican women's organizations, was supporting Henry W. Kiel. Dietz, also a deputy assessor from 1921 to 1925, operates the Shardell Hotel Co., 208 North Skinker boulevard.

REMOVAL ORDER HITS 3 ITALIANS IN CONSULATE HERE

Alessandro Savorgnan, Vice Consul in Charge, Indicates Action Comes as No Surprise.

Alessandro Savorgnan, Italian vice-consul in St. Louis, indicated today that the Government order directing that all consulates be closed by July 15 came as no surprise although he had received no official instructions from his embassy at Washington.

Savorgnan, who has been head of the consulate at 1218 Olive street, since 1936, told a Post-Dispatch reporter he was prepared to follow any instructions he may receive.

Other Italian citizens attached to the consulate, who must leave the United States in accordance with the order, are Mario Marchi, chancellor since 1934, and Miss Elda Richieri, 5316 Pershing avenue, a member of the staff for three years. The only other staff member is Mrs. Amelia Menestrina, an American citizen, who has been with the consulate for 22 years.

Savorgnan, who is 32 years old, lives at the Embassy Apartments, Union and Washington boulevards. Also a resident there is Dr. Herbert Diel, German Consul in St. Louis, who received his closing orders without comment Monday. Savorgnan said he had followed closely newspaper accounts of the Government's action against the consulates. No accusations of improper activity or propaganda dissemination had been directed against his office, he said, "for we have done nothing."

Savorgnan, who served as a consular office at Lyon, France, before coming to St. Louis, married an American citizen, the former Miss Rosette Sorge of La Crosse, Wis., last Christmas eve. He said she had expressed her willingness to accompany him to Italy if necessary.

When Thomas J. Pendergast, then Democratic boss of Missouri, was made a Knight Commander of the Order of the Crown of Italy in April, 1938, Savorgnan, acting in his official capacity, went to Pendergast's office at 1908 Main street, Kansas City, and bestowed the decoration on him. An Italian section of that city was a Pendergast political stronghold.

MISSING VASSAR GIRL FOUND DEAD IN AUTO; KILLED SELF

Anne Marston Green Discovered on Lonely Road; Pronounced Suicide by Exhaust Fumes.

LEXINGTON, Mass., June 21 (AP).—The body of Miss Anne Marston Greene, Vassar College student and daughter of a Harvard professor, missing for 10 days, was found today in her father's automobile on a lonely country road off the Lexington-Concord turnpike.

Police said the condition of the body indicated that the girl drove directly from her Cambridge home to the wooded lane where the machine was found. Medical Examiner John J. Wilcox pronounced her a suicide by carbon monoxide poisoning.

A piece of rubber hose extended from the exhaust to the interior of the car and the windows were stuffed with rags.

Charged With Writing Misleading Advertisements, Selling Ill-Fitting False Teeth.

Dr. Lawrence C. Cleveland, a dentist, and his wife, Lavinia, were fined $500 each by United States District Judge Walter C. Lindley in East St. Louis yesterday on their plea of no contest to charges of mail fraud in connection with their sale of dental plates.

The indictment charged advertisements of the false teeth were misleading, and that the plates were found to be misfits. Dr. and Mrs. Cleveland live at the Broadview Hotel, East St. Louis.

Judge Lindley also fined Dr. Arthur F. Schuetter, a physician in the Goldman Building, East St. Louis, $500 and placed him on probation on his plea of no contest to charges of violating the Harrison Act in issuing prescriptions for narcotics.

The union made an immediate down payment of $30,000. The remaining $80,000 is to be paid in $2500 installments in the next 32 months.

BOOKIE TRIALS URGED FOR LESSER COURTS

Hennings Bases Proposal on Juries' Feeling Against Heavy Sentences.

A suggestion that handbook clerks arrested in police raids on horse race betting establishments be tried in Police Court and in the Court of Criminal Correction, where penalties on conviction are light, rather than that their cases be presented to the grand jury for trial in Circuit Court, was made yesterday in a letter sent by Circuit Attorney Thomas C. Hennings Jr. to the Board of Police Commissioners.

It has been his experience, Hennings said, that because of the heavy sentences possible if the handbook clerks are convicted on felony charges in Circuit Court, grand juries have been disinclined to vote indictments and petit juries have been loath to convict.

The sentence possible on conviction on the felony charge of setting up a gambling device ranges from six months in jail to five years in the penitentiary. In Police Court, the sentende possible on conviction on the misdemeanor charge of setting up a gaming device is a fine of from $10 to $500.

Wants Uniform Program.

Hennings said he was not trying to pass responsibility to any other prosecuting official or intending to "dictate to any other office what its policy should be," but stated if a uniform program were adopted by all prosecuting agencies the result might be more satisfactory.

"With a uniform program," he said, "these handbook activities can be suppressed to such a degree that the principals engaged therein will find it more profitable to obtain honest and legitimate employment than to compete with the organized efforts of all prosecuting agencies."

Hennings also pointed out that the evidence required for conviction in Police Court or the Court of Criminal Correction is much less than that necessary in Circuit Court. To convict a person in Circuit Court on a charge of accepting a bet on a horserace it is necessary to have marked money and the ticket showing that the bet was taken.

Police Court Evidence.

To convict a person in Police Court or the Court of Criminal Correction on a charge of keeping a gaming house, it is only necessary to prove "that the defendant occupied the room or premises in which the wagers were placed or received." The same suggestion for taking handbook cases to the lesser courts, Hennings added, also applied to pinball or lottery cases.

Two handbook clerks were fined $25 and costs yesterday by Police Judge Joseph B. Catanzaro on charges of setting up a gaming house. They were Frank Kennedy, arrested Jan. 27 in a shop at 327 North Grand boulevard, and Nicholas Walsh, arrested May 19 at 8 South Sarah street.

Six clerks and four patrons of handbooks were arrested by police in raids on four establishments yesterday afternoon. A handbook on the third floor at 520 North Grand boulevard, said by police to be operated by Irving Lee, was raided for the third, consecutive day. Police booked three clerks on charges of setting up a gaming house.

Other raids were at 4918A Delmar boulevard, where a clerk and three customers were arrested; 117A North Broadway, where the proprietor was arrested, and the basement of the Holland Building, 211 North Seventh street, where the operator and one patron were arrested in the second raid in two days.

Stabbed in Row Over Parking.

A quarrel arising in parking a car in front of a neighbor's home led to the stabbing of Alvie Wheatley, 4057A McRee avenue, with a pocket knife at 8:20 p. m. yesterday, he told police. Stabbed in the left chest, Wheatley, 28 years old, a plasterer, was taken to City Hospital. William Broyles, 4054 McRee, surrendered two hours later. Broyles, 52, a brakeman, told police he would make no statement.

BOY, 10, DROWNS IN MISSISSIPPI, MAN IN MERAMEC

William Winzen Drawn Under by Current—Theodore Seibert Sinks Before Help Can Reach Him.

A man and a boy were drowned yesterday afternoon, one in the Mississippi River at the foot of Delor court, the other in the Meramec River near Fenton, St. Louis County. The drownings were the first of the season in the St. Louis area as the temperature soared to 94 degrees, highest so far this year. The dead were:

The Winzen boy was drowned in the Mississippi River when he was carried under by the swift current while wading with two companions.

One of his companions, Lawrence Szolga Jr., 9, 4448 Minnesota avenue, told police William was wading near shore when he cried out for help. Neither of his companions was able to swim and the boy disappeared after making several attempts to get back to shore. A search for the body is being made.

Siebert, who was a brother of Constable Walter Siebert of Gravois Township, had gone swimming with two friends near Minnehaha Beach. Gordon Meyer, 7704 Gravois road, one of his companions, told authorities Siebert was attempting to swim across the Meramec River when he started struggling, called for help, and then sank before the other men could reach him.

The body was recovered several hours later, about 6 p. m., by two soldiers on leave from Scott Field who aided other volunteers in dragging the river with grappling hooks. Efforts to revive Siebert with artificial respiration were unsuccessful.

NEW CITY DOG POUND FOUND TO BE INCOMPLETE

$10,000 Still Needed to Install Water Facilities, Heating Plant, Wiring.

The new city dog pound at Gasconade street and Marine avenue, dedicated by former Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann last April, is incomplete and will require at least $10,000 more to be finished, the Board of Estimate and Apportionment has found.

President Charles H. Ellaby of the Board of Public Service reported today that the new pound lacks inside electric wiring, water facilities and a heating plant. The building was constructed under a WPA grant of $30,000, with the city spending $12,000 for materials.

The new pound contains a lethal chamber for putting unclaimed dogs to death, but Ellaby is seeking the advice of veterinarians as to the most humane and economical method of killing dogs before definitely adopting this plan.

TEACHER UNDER FIRE IN SOUTH ONCE A SCHOOL OFFICER HERE

Walter D. Cocking, Georgia U. Dean Attacked by Talmadge, in City in 1926 and 1927.

Walter D. Cocking, dean of education at the University of Georgia, who has won the first round in Gov. Eugene Talmadge's attempt to fire him for allegedly proposing a school in Georgia at which whites and Negroes would study together, was at one time a member of the St. Louis school system.

He was director of curriculum, books and supplies in 1926 and 1927, leaving here after the Board of Education had refused him a leave of absence for further study. Cocking, who has denied making the suggestion attributed to him by Talmadge, was recently reappointed to his post by an 8 to 7 vote of the board of regents of the university. Talmadge, however, has stated that he would use his power over the State budget to remove Cocking.

PROF. MANEY AGREES TO BE BRIDGE WITNESS

Northwestern U. Engineer Wires Prosecutor He Will Be at Clayton Tuesday.

George A. Maney, head of the civil engineering department of Northwestern University, finally agreed today to be a witness in the grand jury investigation of St. Louis County's Lindbergh Bridge.

Maney, in a telegram to Prosecuting Attorney Stanley Wallach, said: "In view of your insistence, I will plan on being at Clayton at 8:30 a. m. next Tuesday."

Wallach had sent another request to Maney last night, and with it a money order for $50 in expense money, asking him to appear before the grand jury.

Maney, an unsuccessful bidder for the engineering contract, had promised to testify but later asked to be excused.

He collaborated with Marcel Boulicault, the $37,000 bridge architect, in his effort to get the engineering contract, and in a personal letter to Boulicault wrote that $1,500,000 would "cover everything" for a two-lane crossing. For the two-lane Lindbergh Bridge the County Court has issued $2,600,000 in bonds.

DECLARES MAN IN COURT IS NOT THE ONE SHE IS SUING

Woman Asked for $1,000,000, Charging Sterilization Operation Without Consent.

LOS ANGELES, June 21 (AP).—Jeannette Scott Seymour Young, 33 years old, who filed a $1,000,000 damage suit against Ralph Maxwell Lewis, asserted at a deposition hearing that he was not the man she accuses of having had a sterilizing operation performed on her in 1935 without her consent.

"That is not Mr. Lewis. That is not Mr. Lewis' nose, nor his hair, nor his voice. Let me look at his hands. No, those are not his hands, either.

At one point, she stopped her testimony and said she believed some sort of impersonation hoax was being perpetrated. A ruling in the suit will be made later. Lewis denied Miss Young's charges.

$487,103 OWING IN WATER BILLS AS OF MAY 20

Public Utilities Director Doyne Says This Is 475 Pct. More Than Delinquencies in 1932.

Water bills totaling $487,103 were owed the city as of May 20, Max H. Doyne, Director of Public Utilities, announced today following completion of a survey of the water assessment division. At the same time, he pointed out that delinquent taxpayers have been crowding the Tax Collector's office to pay their back water bills since his inquiry was made known by the Post-Dispatch last Sunday.

During last week approximately $25,000 in back taxes have been paid. Yesterday 900 persons paid bills totaling $10,000 to Collector William F. Baumann.

Doyne's study of the water assessment records showed a delinquency of $182,265 in flat rate water accounts and $304,838 in meter accounts, or about 475 per cent more than the aggregate water bill delinquency in 1932, before the Democratic administration of former Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann took office.

Water levies owed the city were six months to three and a half years overdue, the inquiry disclosed, in violation of a city ordinance requiring the Water Commissioner to shut off the water supply of delinquent taxpayers after 15 days' warning.

Doyne has announced he will send final warning notices July 1 to those in arrears and will shut off the water supply of householders and business establishments 15 days later if the bills are unpaid. He emphasized that under the city ordinances he has no choice in the matter, and added that it was unfair to those who paid their water bills to permit others to pay nothing.

The new director expressed surprise at the failure of the $40,000 Citizens' Survey Committee report to make any mention of the water bill delinquencies. "I'm amazed to find no whisper of this situation in the report," he said. "The survey committee spoke of inefficiency in the water assessment division and suggested a mechanical method of billing to eleminate surplus employes, but closed its comments there."

The survey report was made public by former Mayor Dickmann shortly before his unsuccessful bid for a third term.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

For Committee to Map a Peace.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WE are now engaged in the gigantic task of directing our economy toward decisive aid to Great Britain, in an effort to save for us and posterity the opportunity to evolve a free and better civilization from the ruins of this one.

While it is necessary and right that we concentrate major attention on achievement of victory, we must not forget that this victory, in the final analysis, is only a means to the end of erecting a better civilization.

If it is impossible to devote our complete energies both to fighting the war and to organizing the coming peace, we must at least recognize that we should construct a firm groundwork for the peace now. If we do not, we are laying ourselves open for another Versailles compromise, since with the war over, the tendency is back to "normalcy" with a speedy, badly organized peace, rather than careful and constructive planning.

The inevitability of the role of the United States in the coming peace cannot be over-emphasized. We hold the balance of power, so that no matter what we do or do not do, the effects cannot help being of wide import to both others and ourselves.

We must awaken our people to a recognition of our role, for none of the Allies can announce war aims without our approval, and as yet, we have not made up our mind.

For an idealistic nation, this chance to formulate the peace should be a great inspiration. And this time, the likelihood that it will be accepted by all is daily growing.

If the practcial necessity is recognized for arriving at a tentative plan for the peace before the war comes to an end, it must be clear that it is time to set up a definite governmental committee to consider the alternatives and formulate such a plan.

The Temporary National Economic Committee is an excellent example of the type of organization which should be entrusted with this task. The criteria for membership in a Peace Planning Commission should be a combination of objectivity without nationalist bias, and familiarity with the economic and political problems involved.

Before this group, testimony and monographs should be submitted by all interested parties. After hearing all the evidence, the main function of the committee should be reaching tentative conclusions on both economic and political provisions of a co-ordinated whole.

The opportunity we have before us of shaping the world's destinies is perhaps the greatest since early Christian times. We must be victorious in the peace as well as in war, and now is not too soon to begin an organized attack on the obstacles to that goal.

Alton. E. J. VERLIE JR.

The School Board's Junket.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WITH a deficit of $300,000 for this year, our Board of Education has the gall to vote the members $800 each for nothing more than a jaunt to Boston.

The names of these members should be printed so we, the public, can at least know to whom we were so generous.

This practice should be stopped. Public opinion should be brought to bear on these members before this practice becomes a habit. P. J. S.

Luther E. Smith's Civic Record.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

YOUR editorial on Luther Ely Smith was timely, and it is nice to know that the press in St. Louis recognizes something that the public generally has failed to take note of.

This man has devoted most of his life to the good and welfare of his city, while others have paid little attention to civic matters, but have worked hard to profit and build up their own business. This man has won a place in the civic life of St. Louis, to those who are familiar with it, that has not been equaled by anyone else who is living today.

It is nice to know that the Post-Dispatch recognizes the work Mr. Smith has done while he is still living. His efforts to secure funds for the riverfront have made possible the work that has been done.

If it were not for him, the riverfront would still be what it was 10 years ago—an eyesore and a disgrace to the city.

E. J. WALLACE.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

LUTHER ELY SMITH deserves your fine editorial of several days ago, nominating him for the St. Louis Award. You are to be congratulated on your splendid selection. Mr. Smith deserves all and more of the fine compliments which you have bestowed upon him.

JAMES V. FRANK.

Would Also Turn Out the British.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

YOUR editorial on the closing of all consulates of Germany in this country was fine. Any intelligent American knows they should have been closed years ago. But while we are sending them out of this country, why not send the British trouble-makers home?

Oh, for some real Americans in positions in our Government, who could see through both the German and English propaganda! JAMES M. QUIGLEY.

Swanwick, Ill.

ST. LOUIS AND P. R.

President Hart has appointed a special five-member committee of the Board of Aldermen to study proportional representation and report whether it thinks this system in electing Aldermen should be substituted for the pending election-by-wards Charter amendment.

Mayor Becker, properly enough, has taken no position on the new proposal as yet. With the press of other business, he has not had the time to prepare himself for an informed judgment.

The Mayor's stand on the proposal to elect Aldermen by wards is, however, clear-cut. He came out for it unequivocally in the mayoral campaign. He made it a part of his platform. He has given no indication whatever of retreating from his pledge.

In announcing the aldermanic study of proportional representation, the Mayor said that it would be necessary to determine whether that plan would conflict with the election-by-wards amendment and whether it would be a substitute for the pending reform or could be offered along with it.

There can be no question as to the conflict between proportional representation and election of Aldermen by wards. The very essence of proportional representation is election at large, with the candidates of the parties participating chosen in proportion to the total vote cast for them. If proportional representation—or "P. R.," as it is often called—were to be submitted to St. Louis at the Sept. 16 Charter referendum, it would necessarily be as a substitute for the pending amendment to change from election at large to election by wards.

Although others could be raised, two serious objections stand in the way of such a substitution. One is the well-founded question as to whether proportional representation is a desirable electoral device. Notwithstanding its sincere and thoughtful backers, the fact remains that proportional representation is in effect opposed to the historic two-party system through which our political democracy has functioned. By giving representation to small groups, it tends to break down that system, to encourage and foster factionalism and thus to make legislative responsibility harder to achieve.

If, as the president of the League of Women Voters in St. Louis has said, proportional representation gives each political group representation exactly in proportion to its voting strength, it is also true that P. R. can be the means whereby social, economic, racial, linguistic and religious groups can be intruded into politics. It can produce, and has produced, deadlocks in municipal affairs, with minority groups finally wielding the balance of power.

The proponents of P. R., like the backers of so many other political changes, made the mistake of claiming too much. Writing in the Encyclopedia of the Social Sciences, Dr. Harold F. Gosnell of the University of Chicago, says, for example, that it has not fulfilled the promise of increasing the popular participation in voting. Although pointing out that movements for it persist, this authority writes that "faith in proportional representation, which was so strong in the nineteenth century and which was vigorously revived in the years immediately following the World War, seems to have waned in many places in recent years."

But if P. R. itself is open to serious question, the proposal for a vote on it in less than three months in St. Louis is clearly inadvisable. The P. R. supporters say that St. Louis should not be content with a partial reform such as ward election, but should achieve a "major" improvement like proportional representation. Are they content, they may be asked in turn, with P. R. and a large Board of Aldermen, or will they want to reduce the number of Aldermen from 28 and a president to nine, as suggested by the Governmental Research Institute?

It should be obvious that this substitute proposal brings up in one form and another important structural changes in the government of St. Louis. These would provoke a major controversy which the city should not be called on to decide until it has thoroughly informed itself. The vacation season is no time for such a civic responsibility.

St. Louis asked the State of Missouri to permit it to change to ward election in 1934. The enabling measure carried the State on that occasion, and in St. Louis the majority was virtually 2 to 1. Had the Democratic Board of Aldermen cared about the will of the people, it would have submitted a Charter amendment at that time. The amendment would have carried and St. Louis would have been electing its Aldermen by wards for the past six years.

At long last, the formal measure is now before the city. The Democratic board submitted it. The Republican candidate for Mayor indorsed it. With the people of St. Louis already on record, 2 to 1, what is the argument about?

The next stop should be the Sept. 16 election and the adoption of the civil service and election-by-wards amendments to the City Charter.

HENRY FORD AND THE CIO.

Henry Ford's decision to sign a contract with the CIO is a milestone in the history of American labor relations. It is a complete reversal of the individualistic and paternalistic Ford policy. The largest citadel of resistance to the established national policy of collective bargaining has surrendered.

When the Labor Board finally ordered an election at the Ford plants this year, Harry Bennett, Ford personnel director, said: "We'll bargain till hell freezes over, but bargaining doesn't mean you have to say Yes." Company officials then threw their influence to the side of the AFL in the pre-election campaign. After the CIO had won, Bennett made a bitter statement. "It's a great victory for the Communist party, Gov. Murray D. Van Wagoner (of Michigan) and the National Labor Relations Board," he said. I. A. Capizzi, company attorney, referred to "this so-called election," and added:

> Today, while the company will deal with the CIO, it will continue to point out that the Wagner Act, if allowed to run, will force all American industry to close down or be Sovietized.

Apparently Henry Ford and his associates have reconsidered their stand thoroughly. Edsel Ford has made the following sensible statement:

> We have decided to go the whole way. . . . We hope, very sincerely, that it (the contract) attains the ends sought and results in peaceable and uninterrupted production. . . .

This has the ring of an honest and constructive statement. The Fords seem to have reversed a stubbornly held policy and so have brought themselves into line with the stream of progress which they themselves have pioneered in so many other directions.

The contract they have signed with the CIO is indeed far-reaching. One of its finest features is the abolition of Bennett's notorious company espionage organization. The most spectacular concession is the union shop accompanied by the checkoff. This goes further than any of the automobile companies have yet gone, although not beyond the position occupied by the United States Steel Co. and the entire coal industry.

It is hardly necessary to say that such a sudden accession of power in the Ford factories places the union under a heavy responsibility. It must prove that it can wield this power fairly, in the interests of justice and to the furtherance of the national defense program.

MR. ROOSEVELT ON THE ROBIN MOOR.

The American people, we are convinced, stand solidly behind the President in that part of his message to Congress yesterday in which he said:

> The Government of the United States holds Germany responsible for the outrageous and indefensible sinking of the Robin Moor. Full reparation for the losses and damages suffered by American nationals will be expected from the German Government.

Certainly the sinking of this ship, with the casting adrift of its 46 passengers and crew in open lifeboats hundreds of miles at sea, was an act of brutality and international outlawry, as the President described it. Furthermore, it was a neutral vessel, carrying no war materials, and far distant from the zone of war. There can be no question about the duty of the United States Government to make a vigorous protest to Berlin, and to call for proper reparation.

Such a demand is the function of the State Department, but no message of this kind has as yet been sent. There has hence been no opportunity to determine the German Government's attitude, except in so far as it has been made known through unofficial statements, and these have been conflicting. Yet, so tense is the Washington atmosphere nowadays, and so swiftly do events move, that the President feels called upon not only to make this demand in a message to Congress, but also to issue a blanket challenge to the Nazis, in which he reiterates many of the points made in his radio address of May 27,

It goes without saying that the United States is not going to be intimidated by the Germans, nor is it going to yield the maritime rights provided by international law, as voluntarily restricted by ourselves in the Neutrality Act. With this, also, the general public agrees.

One wonders, however, what the President has in mind in making the Robin Moor incident the subject of a special message to Congress, which already is fully apprised of the facts, especially since the message makes no specific suggestions for congressional action.

THE TRAGEDY OF THE 0-9.

The navy's recommissioned submarine 0-9 has been lost off Portsmouth, N. H., on a test dive, and hope has virtually been abandoned for the 33 men aboard. The craft went down near the spot where the Squalus sank two years ago when being tested for acceptance in the fleet. The Squalus was a brand-new ship with every modern device. The 0-9, built in 1917, belongs to a class that was declared obsolete immediately after the World War.

This disaster raises a question as to the wisdom of attempting to modernize and put into active service a submarine as old and outmoded as the 0-9. She was as old as the destroyers that were traded to Britain—even older than many of them. A destroyer is a pretty tough breed of ship and a submarine is a decidedly delicate craft. It takes a lot more skill, caution and science to put an obsolete submarine in the water again than it does to restore a destroyer. A ship that travels under water as well as on top has to be kept at the peak of perfection.

The navy has a large fleet of submarines, and there appears to be little reason to drag out such a craft as the 0-9 and put her into active service. If there was an urgent need for submarine training ships that necessitated use of the 0-9, why wasn't she kept in water of restricted depth where rescue attempts would have a much greater chance of succeeding?

WITH ONE-THIRD OF THE HOUSE ABSENT.

The vote in the House on teachers' pension legislation for St. Louis was 54 to 47. This means that 101 Representatives answered to their names on the roll call. In other words, 49, or approximately one-third of the entire membership of the House, did not participate. Since only 76 votes are required for passage, more than twice the number of votes needed is accounted for by those who were absent or did not vote.

Under such circumstances, acceptance of defeat without reconsideration would be to reject potential victory. The sponsors of the teachers' pension legislation should join the House leaders in their appeal to absentees to return to Jefferson City next week so the calender may be handled by a full membership.

And the absentees, if they do not return, will in effect have served notice on their constituents that they are no longer interested in the Legislature and will not expect to be re-elected next year. Every Missouri county and every senatorial district should know the whereabouts of its lawmakers during the remainder of the session. The information will have an important future reference value.

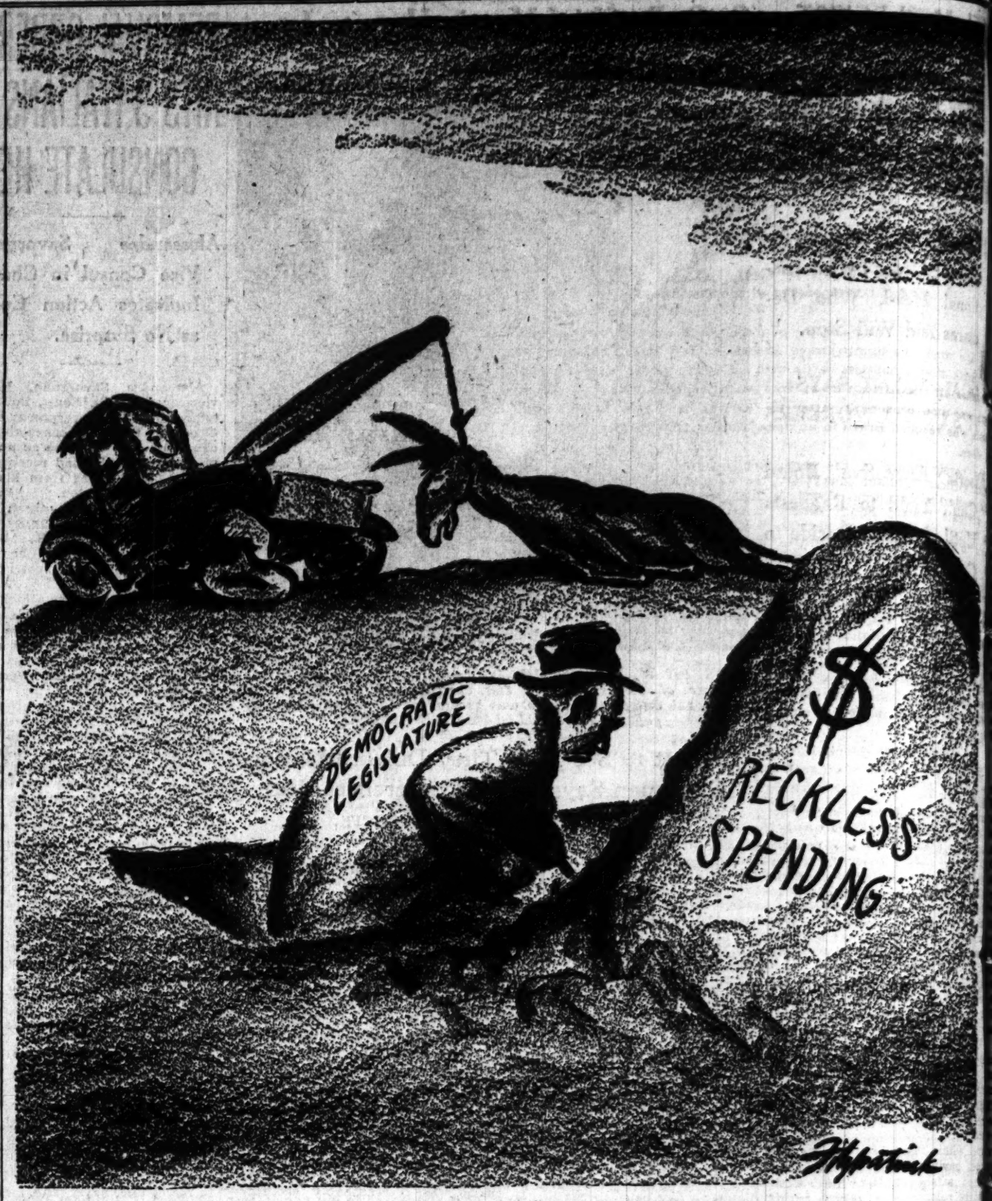

PRIZES FOR NEWS PHOTOGRAPHS.

When the Pulitzer prizes for journalism were established, news photography was in its infancy. In recommending that an annual $500 prize in this field be added to the categories already included, the advisory board of the Columbia University School of Journalism now recognizes the important part photography has come to play in daily journalism.

Speed cameras and photographic processes have been vastly improved since the first Pulitzer prizes were awarded in 1918. So have the half-tone and rotogravure methods of reproduction. In addition, the wirephoto and radio transmission of photos have solved old problems of time and distance. Of great importance is the documentary approach of the newer pictorial journalism, which achieves a striking and significant presentation of essentials in the day's news.

Photographs once were a minor accessory of the news columns. Today, as is shown by the rise of picture magazines and papers, newspaper picture sections and pages, and news stories told almost wholly in pictures, they have created a new field of their own. The increasing number of news picture exhibitions also proves that these far-ranging and skillful photographic reporters are doing convincing work of high artistic excellence.

AND NOW THE GRAVE DIGGER.

Missouri's Failure in School Mergers

The Mirror of Public Opinion

State is wasting money and impairing educational standards by maintaining hundreds of small districts, editor says; praises stand of ex-Superintendent Lee for consolidations and survey; finds 1931 law has failed to bring about the improvements expected.

From the Mountain View (Mo.) Standard; G. S. Wattles, Editor.

IT is to be hoped that the readers of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch did not overlook the letter of Charles A. Lee, which appeared in the issue of June 5. Mr. Lee was formerly our State Superintendent of Schools. At present he is a member of the faculty of Washington University in St. Louis.

Prof. Lee placed his stamp of approval on a recent editorial in the Post-Dispatch which suggested that a Statewide survey of the schools of Missouri be instituted.

When the 1931 school law was passed, it was the sincere hope of the educational leaders of the State that it would bring about a general consolidation movement in our rural schools. It was recognized that no improvement was possible in rural education unless the districts were enlarged.

Now, however, the law has been on the statute books for 10 years and not one enlarged district has been formed, despite the fact that State money has been poured into the rural sections quite liberally. Our school system is comparable to an individual paying out money for the improvement of his property, and failing to get the property reconditioned.

Mr. Lee pointed out that it would be a mistake for the Legislature to appropriate a greater amount of money for the schools than the minimum provided by the 1931 law, since the improvement anticipated by the 1931 law has not taken place. As an illustration of the failure of the law from a consolidation point of view stands the astounding fact that there are 2500 school districts in our State with an average attendance of fewer than 15, and many districts where the attendance is as low as five.

* * *

The logical step for the improvement of our rural schools, according to Mr. Lee, lies in enlarged districts. He contends that an increase of State funds to the hundreds of tiny districts does not guarantee better schools. Rather than benefiting them, it is probable that more money poured out to them will make reorganization the more difficult.

We agree with the Post-Dispatch in advocating a Statewide school survey, and we agree with Mr. Lee in his contention that any improvement in rural education in Missouri is contingent upon a complete reorganization of our present small-district system.

Mr. Lee did a lot of pioneering in the field of school consolidation. With the close of his administration, there was a decided lapse in any progressive tendencies in our educational setup. Had Mr. Lee not become obsessed with the idea of boosting himself politically, it is conceivable that he would still be our State superintendent. We admired him as a school administrator, but we consider him a first-class flop as a politician. However, he carried 90 counties in the election in which he lost the nomination.

Dr. Lee had some splendid work started in our schools. He set high standards for teachers. He advocated consolidation. He reorganized the course of study; in fact, he brought order and organization into a public school system that had made no progress since Grant captured Vicksburg.

It is our candid opinion that had Mr. Lee steered clear of an ill-advised gubernatorial boom and had he kept clear of a senatorial race, he would have retained the support of a lot of us who favored his educational program, but didn't share his political aspirations.

It's a wide-open secret that under the King administration educational progress not only bogged down, but the entire school system has sagged at both ends and in the middle. Whereas the Lee administration advocated higher standards for teachers, about the only qualification now required is "to get the job." The point was nearly reached, under the Lee administration, where a master's degree was considered standard equipment for superintendents and high school principals. Under the King regime, such positions may be held with no degree at all, much less a master's. Under the Lee administration, the problems of improving schools through higher standards for teachers and enlargement of school districts were much-discussed topics. Today they are forgotten issues.

Should a Statewide survey be prosecuted, it might disclose how a town of say 2500 people has 50 per cent more resident high school pupils than a town in the same section with a population of 5000.

It is our sincere belief that the number of elementary schools in our county, outside the consolidated and high school districts, should be reduced to around 10. Each could have a seven- or eight-room modern building with an adequate transportation system. This would make possible the administration of our elementary education with an efficiency literally impossible under present conditions. Of all changes in our civilization, from Noah's ark to the most modern air liner, rural education has changed the least—of which condition the present school administration at Jefferson City appears utterly oblivious.

REAL PROGRESS IN CHILD HEALTH.

From the Philadelphia Record.

DESPITE such handicaps as depression and war, medical science moves steadily forward.

Best news of the week is the disclosure that infant mortality has declined 45 per cent in the United States over the past 20 years, and that the death rate of children from 1 to 14 years of age has been cut by 60 per cent.

If it seems terribly difficult to deal with some of our current problems, we might remember the enormous difficulties, in research, in funds and in organization, which beset those who have waged this campaign for better child health.

No pat solution, no sudden luck could begin to deal with a task which involved millions of youngsters and thousands of doctors. Here was a job which required slow, patient plodding in the face of enormous and discouraging obstacles.

City by city, town by town, the work was carried forward. It required co-operation of public officials, schools, hospitals, health officers in the larger communities and the parents in every community. On one hand there was a vast job of education and propaganda; on the other hand, constant research and the distribution of its fruits throughout the land.

We can be proud of this progress. It is a triumph of American medical leadership and public co-operation.

In Defense of a River's Name

From the Emporia (Kan.) Gazette

WE notice the usually accurate Associated Press, in reporting local floods, speaks of "the Kansas River."

She ain't the Kansas. She's the Kaw. She was named for and by the Kaw Indians and Kansas is proud of her as the Kaw and not as the Kansas. For she runs only 100 miles as the Kaw and then splits up into the Blue, the Republican, the Solomon and smaller tributaries to the West. But when the little old sawed-off 100-mile river gets going, she shore goes good!

It is hard to realize that the Kaw River once was a navigable stream, that 80 years ago steamboats ran up as far as Manhattan. Probably the rainfall hasn't changed much in that time. But nature had a way of storing water then that man has destroyed.

We may have steamboats again on the Kaw if the white man will restore this country as the Indians left it: Put a quarter of a mile of timber on each side of the Kaw, put two or three hundred yards of timber on each side of the principal tributaries, with 50 yards of timber on each side of the creeks running into the Kaw; then terrace the plowland on all the bottoms of the Kaw, the Blue, the Republican, the Solomon, the Smoky, Soldier Creek, the Wakarusa, and in 10 years the Kaw will be restored to its pristine power and beauty.

In the meantime, we hope the esteemed Associated Press will get over the habit of calling the Kaw the Kansas.

WHEN A LEGISLATURE FAILS.

From the Independence (Mo.) Examiner.

WHEN a Legislature fails to do what it is elected to do, enact laws for the betterment of the operations of the State and county governments, and when those necessities of legislation are clearly understood and a Legislature insists on maintaining partisan and spoils control, the time arrives for the voters of the State to take a hand.

This paper has never been enthusiastic about the initiative and referendum laws. They have not worked well and have been used by the political machines to defeat good legislation and to initiate raids on the treasury. But the machinery is there and if the voters, disgusted with a futile and spoils Legislature, want to use it, they may do so.

If a group of men familiar with the needs of the State, both Democrats and Republicans, led by the Governor and patriotic men of both parties, should get together and frame legislation which everybody knows is badly needed and then place it before the voters under the initiative law, it could do what the present Legislature has refused to do.

To do this we would have to forget politics and would probably have to submit the proposed initiative laws at a special election which the Governor would no doubt be glad to call.

How Officer Piloted Survivors Of Ship Sunk by German Raider On 1500-Mile Voyage to Brazil

Suffering in Crowded Lifeboat in Which 44 of 82 Died — Sharks Their Grim Convoy.

By ALVIN H. GOLDSTEIN
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 21.

A HARROWING saga of the sea that began nearly three months ago when the lightly-armed British Anchor liner, Britannia, was sunk after a hopeless battle with a German raider in the Atlantic, 600 miles off the African coast, was pieced together this week despite rigid war-time censorship, after the arrival here June 14 of 26 survivors who reached Brazil in an open lifeboat after crossing 1535 miles of ocean.

The heroic figure of the saga, Third Officer William MacVicar, who made the dangerous decision to navigate toward South America instead of taking the shorter route to Dakar, remained faithful to Admiralty "lip-sealed orders" and declined to discuss the adventure. But several Hindu passengers among the survivors who owe their lives to the genius of MacVicar's seamanship, disclosed some of the details of the sea fight and the hazardous voyage to safety. Accounts of other survivors, received from their places of rescue, served fairly well to round out the story.

Raider Opens Fire.

The Britannia sighted the German raider shortly after dawn, March 24. The captain, whose name has been withheld but who is said to be Alexander Collie, veteran trans-Atlantic shipmaster of the Anchor Line, ordered full speed ahead and while in flight, ordered the aft four-inch rifle with which his vessel was armed, trained on the pursuer. As the menacing smoke from the raider grew nearer, it became evident that the Britannia was outmatched in speed. The German opened fire at about eight miles, far beyond the range of the Britannia's feeble weapon.

The master of the Britannia, cargo-laden and carrying about 400 in crew and passengers, including many women, had to choose either flight, flight or surrender. He elected to fight and ordered speed reduced in an effort to bring the raider within range. But the crafty raider, having found its mark, remained safely at the eight-mile distance, raking the Britannia from stem to stern with deadly gunfire. The Britannia replied with the aft gun but fell far short, and after 12 rounds, during which time the German had fired about 70, the captain of the Britannia struck his flag. It was estimated nearly 100 persons were killed or wounded in the engagement.

Ship Abandoned.

Passengers and crew, many wounded, took to four lifeboats that remained undamaged. Reports from survivors who reached the Canary Islands last April related that the German raider granted 30 minutes to abandon ship before sinking the Britannia with a final burst of shellfire. Accounts from survivors who reached New York indicated that the ship was sinking when its flag was struck and that the Nazi vessel sailed quickly away, leaving those aboard the Britannia to escape as best they might.

It was 90 minutes from the time the German ship was sighted that the lifeboats were lowered. Shouting of orders by the officers mingled with cries of the wounded. Of the 100 seaman, most were Lascars with a sprinkling of Hindus and Moslems. The passengers included many Indian merchants and their families, removing their fortunes to their native land. Those fortunes locked in the ship's safe, were for the most part at the bottom of the ocean.

Versions of Captain's Death.

Some accounts have it that the master of the Britannia—Collie, if it was Alexander Collie—went down with his ship, unable to take his place in a lifeboat because others were still aboard when the liner plunged. But brief dispatches from Brazil last April told of another boatload of Britannia survivors that reached Sao Luiz, and set forth, without names, that it had been navigated by the captain of the ship who murmured when sighted land: "All's well," and collapsed and died. Third Officer MacVicar declined to tell reporters the name of his captain.

MacVicar, 27-year-old Scotsman, was placed in charge of one of the lifeboats which carried 82 passengers and members of the crew, among them at least 20 wounded. Indicating the haste necessary in leaving the Britannia, only emergency rations of biscuits and water were in the lifeboats. The rations were for not more than 40 men, the normal capacity of the boat. Despite this almost insurmountable handicap, MacVicar decided that unfavorable winds and current made the shorter 600-mile journey to Dakar less hopeful than the 1500-mile voyage to South America and he set a compass course for Sao Luiz, Brazil. Incidentally, he landed only eight miles away from that port.

Sharks for Convoy.

The lifeboat, with 82 occupants, was so crowded each man had to sit upright. Provisions were rationed at one biscuit and one ounce of water a day. The first to go were the wounded, and the broiling sun did for four or five of them the first day. As each man died, MacVicar spoke a brief seaman's prayer, and the body was pushed into the water. Soon sharks made their appearance, and never thereafter was the boat without an escort of the voracious fish. The strong men in the lifeboat jested about the "convoy," the weaker and the sick wept and covered their eyes.

The passengers rigged a small sail for the lifeboat. MacVicar now had room to stretch out in the stern with the tiller under his arm, holding doggedly to the course he had set for South America. There was plenty of room in the lifeboat now, because MacVicar had said 44 prayers; 44 bodies had gone over the side. The sharks in the wake of the boat fought among themselves during each burial at sea.

Of the original 82 in the lifeboat, 38 were still alive, when on the thirteenth day beneath the blistering sun, smoke appeared on the horizon. But the vessel that gave it off never passed within view, and as the smoke faded so did the hopes of those in the lifeboat. MacVicar had turned the boat toward the smoke, but now that it was gone swung it back on the original course without comment.

Land After 23 Days.

Only a few of the Lascar members of the crew were able to see the land when MacVicar sighted it April 19, after 23 days of suffering and privation. That evening the boat came to rest on a beach, eight miles south of Sao Luiz. Before any attempted to disembark, MacVicar divided the rest of the stores—a few ounces of water and several biscuits each—and the survivors attempted to regain some of their strength. They waded waist deep through the water and fell exhausted on the sand. All slept until morning when they were awakened by a native.

None was able to walk. MacVicar managed to write a note to the British Consul at Sao Luiz and the native delivered it. A few hours later a bus took the survivors to a hospital where they remained for five weeks. Later, they were placed aboard the Brazilian liner Cayru on which they arrived at New York pending passage to their home countries.

Dispatches reaching New York have set forth that 135 passengers of the Britannia have been rescued. Seventy-eight rescued north of the Equator were landed at Cadiz, Spain, by the Spanish steamship Cabo Hornus, and 57 were taken to Montevideo, Uruguay, by the British freighter, Raranga. —T. B. S.

1800 ATTEND LITTLE SYMPHONY CONCERT

Stanley Chapple Makes Debut in St. Louis as Conductor.

Stanley Chapple, the English conductor, made his St. Louis debut in that capacity last night when he directed the second concert of the Little Symphony season in Washington University Quadrangle. An audience of nearly 1800 heard the concert, and by every visible and audible sign seemed to be impressed with what they heard.

Although it was Mr. Chapple's first contact with this group of players and his first performance in the open air, his direction of the four numbers on the program was characterized throughout by a high degree of control and concentration. It was quite evident that he was getting the interpretative results he wanted, in so far as the band was able to deliver them, and that the whole performance was a reasonably accurate representation of his considered thought and feeling about the music.

The high point of the evening was the performance of Haydn's Symphony in C Major, No. 7 of the Salomon series, which was marked by humor and sentiment as well as classic balance. That is to say, the music had an imaginative poetic impulse behind it which consistently affected its character without diminishing any of the smartness that the performance derived from crisp phrasing, clean articulation and consistent rhythms. Mr. Chapple's choice of tempi seemed to me wholly correct.

Wagner's "Siegfried Idyll" also was done with great charm, the charm of simplicity and tender realization. Mr. Chapple frequently evoked a touching quality from the strings and a surprising variety of dynamics despite the diffusing effects of the open air.

The concert was opened with Handel's Concerto Grosso in A Minor and closed with Hamilton Harty's transcription of music by John Field, the nineteenth Irish composer who spent an important part of his life in Russia. There was no Muscovite influence in the music, however. It was lyrical, sentimental and pleasing, but rather thin. The charming performance by the orchestra won an ovation from the audience which Mr. Chapple finally rewarded by repeating the closing Rondo.

Mr. Chapple will direct his second and last concert of this season next Friday evening. Assisting artists will be Deborah Carnovsky and Edna Feldman, who will play Bach's C Major double concerto for piano and strings with the orchestra. —T. B. S.

CAPT. JAMES ROOSEVELT TAKES CLIPPER FOR U. S.

Due in New York Tomorrow After Visiting War Zones in Asia, Africa and Europe.

NEW YORK, June 21 (AP).—Capt. James Roosevelt, eldest son of the President, who has visited war zones in Asia, Africa and Europe as a Marine Corps officer, left Lisbon, Portugal, on the Yankee Clipper today, Pan American Airways reported.

The plane, carrying 13 other passengers, including Juan T. Trippe, Pan American president, is due in New York tomorrow afternoon.

Ford Contract With the Union Most Sweeping in Motor Industry

Agreement Provides All Workers Shall Join CIO-UAW and Calls for Highest Wages Paid by Competitors.

DETROIT, June 21 (AP). — Unionization of the automotive industry was hailed by labor leaders as complete today with signing of a contract between the Ford Motor Co. and the CIO United Automobile Workers.

Last of the major non-union firms in the industry, the Ford company, largest family-controlled industrial unit in the world, and the UAW-CIO, concluded the agreement yesterday in Washington. It provides for a union shop and dues checkoff.

The contract, most far-reaching ever written in the automotive industry, was signed after two weeks of negotiations and exactly a month after the union had won a National Labor Relations Board election in the firm's two principal plants here.

Contract, Pattern for Industry.

"The agreement with the Ford Motor Co.," said R. J. Thomas, UAW-CIO president, "completes the organization of the automotive industry by the Union Automobile Workers-CIO."

He added that the contract would provide a pattern for the industry which "will be universally adopted before the end of another year."

Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor Co., said the firm had "decided to go all the way" in dealing with the union.

"As the company now views the situation, no halfway measures will be effective," he said. "We cannot work out one scheme of things for some of our workmen and another scheme for the remainder. So we have decided to go the whole way."

Although the contract covers only the main plants here—the giant River Rouge factory in suburban Dearborn employing more than 90,000 workers and the smaller Lincoln plant—it will apply to the firm's numerous branch assembly plants throughout the nation.

Union Shop, Checkoff.

The Ford company, which in 1914 startled industry by instituting a $5 minimum daily wage, thus becomes the first big motor car producer to grant a union shop and the checkoff system by which the comapny deducts union dues from the pay envelopes of its workers and turns them over to the union treasury.

The union shop clause gives the company the right to hire any workers it desires, but requires them to join the union. It differs from a closed shop under which the union supplies the labor force.

The contract further provides that the company shall pay wage rates "equal to the highest paid in various classifications" by competitors. Wage negotiations are expected to begin next week.

In addition, the agreement calls for elimination of the Ford service department. Plant protection by that department is to be performed by employes identified by badges.

The contract accords the company the privilege of affixing the union label on its automobiles.

Other Points of Contract.

Other points in the pact, which workers in the two plants here are expected tomorrow to approve unanimously, follow:

All wage increases to be retroactive to the signing of the contract! no reduction in prevailing rates.

The company and the union to confer in December on payment of a bonus.

Grievances to be handled by a shop steward system with one steward for each 500 workers.

Disputes not adjusted by shop stewards to be handled by special grievance machinery.

Time and a half for overtime and double time for Sundays and holidays.

Workers called in and not put to work to get two hours call-in pay.

Seniority to determine layoffs and rehiring.

When a drop in production necessitates layoffs, no "seniority workers" are to be laid off until the work week drops to 32 hours.

The contract further provides for the reinstatement, with back pay, of between 3000 and 4000 workers who, the NLRB charged were dismissed for union activity. An arbitrator will decide what employes are to receive back pay. Some observers estimate this will amount to $2,500,000 or more.

Speculation on the amount of wage increases runs as high as $30,000,000. Prior to the NLRB election in the Ford and Lincoln plants, the company announced wage boosts totaling more than $13,000,000 annually. The company has 120,000 employes.

Comment by Murray.

Philip Murray, president of CIO, hailed the signing of the contract as one of the historic advances in union relations. Such a contract was one of CIO's goals last fall when Murray succeeded John L. Lewis in the presidency. A contract with Bethlehem Steel—still to be won—is the other goal.

Murray remarked that the conclusion of the agreement indicated "the wholesome approach that labor and industry have towards the solution of their own problems."

The National Labor Relations Board in an agreement with the company and union announced that all charges against the firm would be dismissed. The NLRB had issued eight orders against the company, and three others were in the process of being heard.

The NLRB said the settlement provided for the entry of board orders and enforcing decrees in United States Circuit Court of Appeals on consent of the company in cases applying to plants at Long Beach, Cal.; Edgewater, N. J.; Detroit; Richmond, Cal.; Buffalo; St. Louis and Kansas City.

Circuit Court enforcement decrees already handed down in cases affecting the Dearborn and Dallas (Tex.) plants, the board said, will be complied with fully by the company.

AFL Leaders Object.

Officers of the American Federation of Labor auto workers' union adopted a critical attitude toward the CIO contract.

"Mr. Ford has no right to enter into an agreement with the CIO to throw out pending Labor Board cases filed under the name of the UAW-AFL," said Irvan Cary, UAW-AFL president. "The Kansas City cases were filed by us, and we were not consulted about disposition of these cases."

Jerry Aldred, UAW-AFL secretary, said "Ford cannot, under the law, bargain with the CIO in the outlying plants in which we have a majority, so far as I can see." Regarding "outlying plants," Aldred said he referred particularly to small plants in the Detroit area.

269 UAW Members Expected to Be Rehired at Ford Plant Here.

A total of 269 members of the United Automobile Workers, St. Louis Local No. 325, are expected to be rehired by the Ford Motor Co. assembly plant at 4100 Forest Park boulevard as a result of the agreement reached in Detroit, officers of the local said today.

The men went on strike in November, 1937. The NLRB ordered 96 of them reinstated with back pay, 120 reinstated when they made application, with back pay dating from the date of application, and 53 others rehired when openings were available. The Labor Board appeal for an enforcement order now pending in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals probably will be dismissed because of the agreement, it was said.

Back pay claims of the men total about $300,000, the union said, but it was not known what settlement will be made.

SECOND QUINTS FOR LIONESS

Quintuplets as Rare With Lions as Among Human Beings.

EL MONTE, Cal., June 21 (AP). —Princess, a lioness, gave birth to quintuplets today, her second litter of five cubs in nine months. Mrs. Charles Gay, wife of the lion farm owner, said quintuplets are almost as rare among lions as among human beings.

One of Princess' first five cubs died within a few hours after birth, but all the present litter seem husky. "The cubs weigh about a pound each," said Mrs. Gay. "Half a pound less than average."

END WAR QUICKLY, SAVE CIVILIZATION, SAYS LINDBERGH

Thinks Alternative to Negotiated Peace Is Hitler Victory or Prostrate Europe.

LOS ANGELES, June 21 (AP).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, urging last night that the United States stay out of war, said "the only way European civilization can be saved is by ending the war quickly through a negotiated peace."

He spoke before an overflow crowd in Hollywood Bowl, which seats 20,000.

"The alternative to a negotiated peace," he said, "is either a Hitler victory or a prostrate Europe, and possibly a prostrate America as well. I tell you that the only way our American life and ideals can be preserved is by staying out of this war."

Summary of Situation.

Lindbergh summarized "the true facts as they appear before us in plain American wording," thus:

"1. We are still unprepared for war, and it would take us years to prepare adequately for the type of war we now consider entering. It would mean turning this country into a military nation that exceeds Germany in regimentation. Life as we know it today would be a thing of the past.

"2. Even if we were fully prepared at this time, we would face the superhuman task of crossing an ocean and forcing a landing on a fortified continent against armies stronger than our own and hardened by years of war. It would probably mean the loss of millions of American lives.

"3. We in America have the best defensive position in the world. No foreign Power can invade us today, and with reasonable preparations on our part, no combination of foreign Powers will ever be able to invade us. Since they cannot invade, it will be only a question of time before they desire to trade with us. And I have full confidence in American ability to hold its own in a trade.

"The developments of modern warfare make America less vulnerable to invasion that we have ever been in the past. The surest way for us to lose a war is by trying to defend England or any other part of Europe.

Germany's Air Superiority.

"No matter how many fighting planes we build in America and send to England, it is not possible to base enough squadrons in the British Isles to equal in striking power the squadrons that Germany can base on the continent of Europe.

"I repeat again that the very developments of modern warfare which have strengthened the position of America have greatly weakened the position of England, and I challenge anyone to prove otherwise.

"Possibly the most ominous and deplorable development of the war as far as the United States is concerned, is the deliberate attempt to misinform and confuse our people. Some day in the not distant future, the men who are responsible for this will be called to account by an aroused and enlightened nation. The attempt to involve our country in the war by subterfuge and propaganda is not a crime to be passed over lightly. Public opinion will bring the charges, and history will be the judge."

FIVE GET PAINTINGS AS PRIZES FOR SELLING THEATER TICKETS

Mrs. Joseph Grand Leads Winners With Sale of 103 Season Books.

Five paintings by outstanding St. Louis artists were presented at a meeting at the Gatesworth Hotel last night to the five persons who sold the most season tickets for the fourth season of the outdoor Civic Theater, on Warson road, which opens Tuesday with "Two on an Island."

Mrs. Joseph Grand, 515 Midvale avenue, University City, who won first prize by selling 103 tickets, chose a water color of a Gloucester boat scene by Fred Conway. Adam Rosenthal, 5542 Waterman boulevard, took Alice Bunch's tempora painting of hollyhocks, and Mrs. G. A. Jensen, 7069 Westmoreland place, chose a pastel landscape by Oscar Thalinger.

The other two winners, who were not present, were H. Lawrence Miller, 250 South Brentwood boulevard, Clayton, and John W. Giesecke, 32 Algonquin Woods, Glendale. They will choose between a lithograph by Kenneth Hudson and a water color by Charles F. Quest.

SUES HER SISTER FOR $25,000

Teacher Charges Mrs. Laura Teugel Beat Her.

Family difficulties of Miss Mary L. Kleine, public school teacher, who lives upstairs at 2328 Hebert street, and her sister, Mrs. Laura Teugel, who lives downstairs, have reached Circuit Court where Miss Kleine filed suit Thursday seeking $25,000 damages against Mrs. Teugel.

Miss Kleine declined to comment on her petition, which asserted that on May 30, she suffered ear and other injuries when Mrs. Teugel "assaulted, beat her and threw a pitcher of cold water on her." Miss Kleine, who teaches at the Clay School, 3820 North Fourteenth street, seeks $5000 actual and $20,000 punitive damages. Mrs. Teugel could not be reached.

DOROTHY THOMPSON WRITES

"ON THE RECORD"

THE RADIO NETWORK CONTROVERSY

I CONFESS that I cannot see exactly how the issue of "public interest or convenience" is involved in the efforts of James L. Fly, the head of the Federal Communications Commission, to change the present system of network broadcasting.

I am not discussing here whether the present system of private corporate organization and financing by advertising is the best possible system. I believe that question is open to discussion. It is possible that a public corporation such as the British Broadcasting Corporation could do it better. I am not sure.

But nothing like this is at issue. What is at issue is whether Mr. Fly is not overstepping the powers given him by the Radio Act, and whether what is presently being proposed will or will not improve matters in any way from the standpoint of the public. I think it will not.

* * *

THE original Radio Act was clearly designed primarily as a matter of traffic control. The commission was appointed to license wave lengths. There is nothing in the act that gives it power to censor what goes out over the air, or to decide how the industry shall be organized, except an ambiguous phrase to the effect that it must be administered in conformity with "public interest, convenience, and necessity."

* * *

THE question at issue has to do with the financial and organizational structure of the domestic broadcasting system, and it seems to me that Mr. Fly has as little right to interfere in favor of one structure and system as the Interstate Commerce Commission would have to decide whether corporations, or chain stores or cooperatives or mail order house systems, should be allowed to survive.

Mr. Fly's prejudices ought not to give him the right to become, as William S. Paley of Columbia Broadcasting System quite accurately described him: "Complaining witness, prosecutor, Judge, jury, and hangman, all in one."

The public listens to the radio about five hours a day, but the public has little knowledge of how the remarkable broadcasting systems are run.

The regulations proposed by Mr. Fly contain two clauses that lay an ax at the base of the main structures of broadcasting. One point says that no network may have any option on affiliated stations' time, and another that no network may have an exclusive contract with a station. This knocks the CBS and NBC systems right between the eyes. These companies do have affiliated stations held by contracts which give the companies exclusive options on the stations' time and give the stations exclusive call upon the networks' entire program service.

This system makes it possible to assure advertisers nation-wide hookups on a definite number of stations, to make advertising contracts in advance, to insure certain outlets, and to build up sufficient capital to permit such grandiose non-commercial programs as the Town Hall of the Air, the Church of the Air, the Toscanini orchestra, and an immense amount of free distribution of time for educational programs, such as the one on music appreciation.

Without such order and certainty, no network would have the incentive to build up such non-commercial "prestige" programs. Last year, for instance, CBS spent $5,000,000 on such programs, and NBC's outlay must have been as great. CBS over 10 years has made an investment of some $25,000,000 in good will. Fixed costs, such as wires, union wages for talent, etc., are so high that the networks must have a high level of advertising revenue if the quality of programs is to be maintained.

* * *

IN matters like this one, it is well to ask one's self "who stands to profit by the changed rules?" Because if any one system stands to profit at the expense of the others, objectivity is out of the question.

Mutual stands to profit. For Mutual is not a corporation in the sense that CBS and NBC are, but instead of holding contracts with the stations is owned by the stations. They have no sustaining services, but pick up local programs and make them nation-wide. Mutual is Macy in New York, and the Chicago Tribune in the Middle West. Each owns 25 per cent of the stock, and for all purposes together control the system.

Now, if Mr. Fly's new regulations go through, Mutual will be able to sell programs on what CBS and NBC have built up, with no effort on Mutual's part. Mutual will be placed on a basis of absolute equality and get for nothing what CBS and NBC have created at enormous investment, over more than a decade.

Are there any political interests at stake?

I should guess there are. The new regulations would enormously increase the strength of Col. McCormick's station. Col. McCormick, incidentally, is not a man to complain about monopoly. His Chicago Tribune has exercised a monopoly in the morning paper field in Chicago.

Col. McCormick's views on the present emergency and international situation are those of Senator Wheeler. And, as it happens, Senator Wheeler is the chairman of the Senate Committee that holds the club over the White Resolution which would throw the whole issue back into Congress for legal regulation instead of by the ukases of Mr. Fly.

In the hearings, it has not seemed to me that Senator Wheeler was in the least objective, but had definitely a parti pris on the question. And meanwhile, his America First Committee is bombarding the networks with requests for time, with a letter-head bearing Mrs. Wheeler's name.

* * *

I HAVE long observed that although business interests perennially complain about Government regulation and control they are the first to rush to Washington, to any of the controlling agencies, and get the State to interfere if they can thereby get some profits for nothing.

This whole business looks to me like that, with the advantage to mutual, which has been after these rules for three years.

And at any rate, to set the whole broadcasting structure adrift at this point of history seems hardly to conform with the public's interest, convenience, or necessity.

COMMAND OF ARMY AIR FORCES UNIFIED, STIMSON ANNOUNCES

branches an independent arm like the Army and Navy.

Stimson said that "We favor autonomy of the air arm rather than segregated independence."

Under the reorganization, the Army air forces will combine both combat and service units under a high ranking air officer, who will be responsible only to the Army chief of staff.

Hitherto, the GHQ air force included tactical and combat units and directed combat training. The Air Corps was charged with basic and advanced training, procurement, maintenance and research work.

Stimson contended that a separate, independent air force could not operate effectively unless there was a single supreme general staff in which authority over the Army, Navy and air forces was fully vested, as in Nazi Germany.

"It would seem to be obvious that it is neither prudent nor desirable to undertake such a major governmental reorganization in the midst of a national emergency," Stimson added. He said that creation of an independent air force just now would bring "confusion and waste of time" by divorcing existing "housekeeping and servicing functions" from the present military organization.

Stimson did not say what air officer would head the air forces, but military circles believed the choice was Maj. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, former Air Corps chief who is now a deputy Chief of Staff.

LONDON BOBBIES DISCARDING STEEL HELMETS FOR DAYTIME

Going Back to Old High-Topped Kind in Belief R. A. F. Has Beaten Nazi Raiders.

LONDON, June 21 (AP).—Confident that the R. A. F. has beaten the German day raider, most London policemen will discard steel helmets by day and don again the high-topped peacetime variety.

The order allowing return to the old helmets by metropolitan police, special constables and war reserves stipulated that steel helmets must be worn at night.

ATTORNEY PROTESTS NAMING OF JACKSON TO U. S. COURT

Senate Group Delays Action on Nomination After Lawyer Assails Dismissal of Detroit Indictments.

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP).—A Senate Judiciary Subcommittee delayed action today on the nomination of Attorney General Robert H. Jackson to the Supreme Court after receiving a protest from Maxwell M. Wallach, Detroit attorney.

Previously, another subcommittee had approved without dissent the nomination of Justice Harlan Fiske Stone to be Chief Justice.

Wallach testified that his son was murdered while serving with Republican forces in Spain "by Communists now in this country." He protested because he said Jackson had dismissed Federal grand jury indictment of 11 persons at Detroit charged with recruiting men for the Spanish Republicans.

Senator Norris, Nebraska, appearing as a witness, defended Jackson's dismissal of the indictments, but Senator O'Mahoney (Dem.), Wyoming, chairman of the subcommittee, recessed the hearing until Monday.

LEGION MAN CHARGES 'SOME LABOR GROUPS' WITH TREASON

LEWISTON, Me., June 21 (AP). —An assertion that "some labor groups have been guilty of treason and nothing less than treason," was made today by John Thomas Taylor, the American Legion's national legislative representative.

Speaking of strikes and work-stoppages in defense industries, Taylor told Maine's Legion convention: "I put the finger on Phil Murray (CIO head) . . . for permitting such things to be done."

Labor, he continued, "has done nothing about cleaning up Communism in CIO unions on the West Coast," and labor leaders can "prove their Americanization by getting rid of Communism in their organizations."

STOCKS MOVE IN NARROW PATH; SMALL TURNOVER

NEW YORK, June 21 (AP).—The stock market maintained its balance fairly well today despite the lack of strong buying incentives in any department.

Spotty recoveries appeared in the first hour and, at the close, while minus signs were plentiful, fractional advances were sprinkled over most sections.

Few customers showed up in boardrooms, the majority following the recently inaugurated custom of observing Saturday as a holiday. Financial offices generally were manned by skeleton staffs.

Timid bidding that came in during the brief and rather pointless proceedings was attributed partly to the idea the drying up of offerings yesterday might have been a sign the market was again "oversold" and in a position to rally on worthwhile news.

Wall Street consensus was that the President's message to Congress, which was released just before the ifnal gong of Friday, had no particular speculative effect, although possibly keeping some potential buyers in the background on the theory the communication indicated the United States was nearer a shooting war than most people realized.

While the business picture was viewed as a bullish argument by some commission house optimists, taxes and spreading governmental controls, brokers suggested, persisted as handicaps. The Russian-German riddle also was given as a reason for market wariness.

In the Curb forward inclinations were exhibited by United Gas, Niagara Hudson Power, Pennroad and Humble Oil.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, June 21 (AP).—Quotations in foreign exchange were changed in only one instance when the Argentine free peso was recorded as having lost 5-100 cent in value against the United States dollar.

Despite the United States Treasury having "thawed" the frozen Swiss and Swedish assets, none of the large New York banks quoted exchange on currencies of those countries, a category in which they continued to include Portugal's money.

Canada — Official Canadian Control Board rates for United States dollars, buying 10 per cent premium, selling 11 per cent premium, equivalent to discounts on Canadian dollars in New York of buying 9.91 per cent, selling 9.09 per cent. Canadian dollar in New York open market 11⅝ per cent discount or 88.37½ United States cents.

Europe: Great Britain, official (Bankers' foreign exchange committee rates), buying $4.02, selling $4.04; open market, cables $4.03½.

Latin America: Argentine official 29.77, free 23.75; Brazil official 6.05n, free 5.05n; Mexico 20.70n.

BOSTON WOOL.

BOSTON, June 21 (U. S. D. A.).—Interest in domestic wools showed some increase in the Boston wool market during the past week. Much of the increased interest was for wools suitable for pending Government orders. Sales of a few grades of territory wools were slightly broader than in the previous week and prices were unchanged. Demand tended to slacken on the grades of foreign wools. The finer grades of bright fleece wools were inactive at 42@44 cents, in the grease, quoted on fine delaine, including Ohio, and at 43@45 cents, in the grease, on combing half blood. Scattered sales were closed on bright three-eighths and one-quarter blood fleeces at 46@48 cents, in the grease.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, June 21 (AP).—Prices moved narrowly in the bond market today but early in the final hour of the short session the rising side appeared favored.

Outstanding individual issues were those of Missouri Pacific Railroad, a reorganization plan for which was approved yesterday by a Federal court. Typical were the 5s of '77, "F," up nearly 2 points on turnover of several hundred bonds.

Warren Bros. 6½s, after a wide run-up Friday, lost about 3 points today in moderately active dealings. Two issues of Lehigh Valley Coal 5s, up yesterday, extended their gains by further wide margins today, but turnover was negligible.

More typical of the market were the fractional moves either way by such issues as Rock Island General 4s, Commonwealth Edison convertibles, U. S. Steel 2.45s, Southern Pacific 4½s and New York Central 5s.

U. S. Governments were about steady in over-the-counter dealings, though one or two, not recently traded on the big board, caught up with the market there with good advances. A few South Americans found favor in the foreign division, especially Sao Paulo State 8s.

COMMODITIES

By the Associated Press.

The twin leaders of the June commodity rise—New York cotton futures and Chicago wheat—marked up new gains in the abbreviated week-end trading session.

The fiber closed 45 to 55 cents a bale higher. Contracts were reported scarce except in periods of spirited bidding. Mill and trade demand were again keen. Wheat's rise of ⅝ to 1⅜ cents a bushel was partly in response to continued marked strength in soybeans. Corn gained ⅛ to 1 cent.

Wool tops closed .5 of a cent lower. Most other New York commodity exchanges were closed for the usual Saturday holidays.

The Associated Press weighted index of 35 wholesale spot staples registered a new three-year high at 88.08 per cent of the 1926 average compared with 87.98 per cent Friday.

Butter, Egg Futures Margins Up.

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP).—The Agriculture Department said today it had been notified that the Chicago Mercantile Exchange would raise margins on speculative transactions in butter futures from $400 to $600 per car and on egg futures from $300 to $360 per car, effective next Monday.

The department said this step was taken on the recommendation of a special committee of the exchange appointed at the request of the department in a move to curb undesirable speculative activity.

RAIL INCOME.

CLEVELAND, June 21 (AP).—Pere Marquette Railway today reported May net income of $310,983, after all charges, an increase of $268,797 from May, 1940. The five months' net of $1,494,356 was a gain of $907,042.

ABSENCE OF HEDGING AID TO WHEAT PRICE

CHICAGO, June 21 (AP).—Wheat prices moved up about 1 cent a bushel after early softness on the Chicago Board of Trade today. Strength in soybeans and other commodities was mainly responsible for the advance, traders said.

Absence of any important hedging so far, traders said, indicated that the wheat now being harvested is being stored and held for Government loans. Some traders expressed the opinion, however, that as the movement enlarges an increase of hedging pressure would be felt.

Hard and soft winter wheat of more than 15.5 per cent moisture content is not eligible for Government loans. Traders feel that if farmers have wheat of this type they may be anxious to liquidate it at present price levels rather than to store it in farm bins.

Private reports from Kansas indicated that harvesting in southern and central areas had caught up with Oklahoma and outstripped Texas. Most of the new wheat arriving at Kansas City now, according to these reports, is in very good condition.

Soybean contracts reached the highest levels since 1937 on an early upturn of about 1½ cents a bushel. Professionals said offerings were light and stop loss orders to buy were uncovered.

Rye and oats held about steady early. Today's grain receipts included 115,000 bushels of bonded rye received from Fort William, Canada, via the Great Lakes.

Corn fluctuated within a narrow range early, with little change from yesterday's closing prices. Lard was firm to slightly higher in sympathy with continued firmness in the live hog market.

MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, June 21.—In the cash grain section of the market today wheat was ½@¾c up and corn ½@1c up.

Sales made on the floor of the exchange were as follows: No. 2 red winter, $1.01½; No. 3 red winter, $1.01; No. 3 red garlicky, 99½c; No. 4 red garlicky, 98c; No. 1 mixed, $1.00½.

Corn—No. 2 white, 82½c.

COTTON MARKET CLOSES 9 TO 11 POINTS HIGHER

NEW YORK, June 21 (AP).—Cotton again established new four-year tops today with the shortage of supplies the dominating influence.

A steady trade demand recovered initial losses resulting from local selling and profit taking.

Closing prices were at the best levels of the day. Selling was limited to light profit taking and hedging.

Futures closed 9 to 11 higher.

AT LEAST A YEAR BEFORE MO. PAC. IS REORGANIZED

Important Step Taken When Court Approves I. C. C. Plan—Creditors to Vote on It.

The Missouri Pacific Railroad system is an important step nearer reorganization as a result of approval yesterday by United States District Judge George H. Moore of the Interstate Commerce Commission's reorganization plan, which would consolidate most of the component companies, sharply reduce capitalization and annual charges and wipe out present common and preferred stockholders.

It is expected, however, that at least a year will elapse before the system is taken out of trusteeship. Judge Moore will enter a formal judgment approving the plan and will make allowances for services by lawyers, mortgage trustees and committees representing security owners.

The I. C. C. then will distribute ballots among various classes of security owners and other creditors entitled to vote on the plan. If it is approved by creditors holding two-thirds of the amount of claims in each class, the Court will enter a judgment confirming the plan, and it will then be the duty of the reorganization managers to incorporate the new company, distribute new securities as provided in the plan and transfer title to the railroad properties from Trustee Guy A. Thompson to the new company.

Objections Overruled.

In approving the plan, which provides sharp reductions in capitalization and annual charges, Judge Moore overruled objections by various groups of bondholders and stockholders that the plan was unfair to them, chiefly in provisions for proportionate distribution of securities in the reorganized company.

With respect to elimination of present stockholders, Judge Moore said the finding of the I. C. C. that they had no equity in the railroad property and should receive no interest in the new company was clearly supported by the evidence. The plan, he found, does not discriminate unfairly against the stockholders in favor of several other classes of interests.

26 AMERICAN MISSIONARIES FROM ZAMZAM BACK IN U. S.

Woman Says They Were Ordered by Government Not to Discuss Details of Sinking.

NEW YORK, June 21 (AP).—Twenty-six American missionaries, survivors of the sinking of the Egyptian liner Zamzam, and 111 European refugee children recently released from concentration camps arrived today on the Portuguese liner Mouzinho.

Miss Alice E. Landis, Elizabethtown, Pa., missionary nurse who was en route to the South African British Kenya Colony when a German raider sank the Zamzam, said the Federal Government had ordered the missionaries not to discuss details of the South Atlantic incident. Miss Landis was one of the survivors who left an overloaded lifeboat and swam to a nearby raft to await German rescue an hour or more later.

The refugee children, boys ranging from 8 to 15 years from Protestant, Jewish and Catholic families, were brought from Marseille, France, by the United States Committee for the Care of European Children.

SUNSET GOLF CLUB, June 21.—Bob Cochran, St. Louis District champion, was all square with Frankie Stranahan, 18-year-old Toledo, O., star, at the end of nine holes of their semifinal match in the forty-first annual Trans-Mississippi golf tournament here this afternoon.

SUNSET GOLF CLUB, June 21.—Bob Cochran, St. Louis district champion, teed off against Frankie Stranahan, 18-year-old Toledo (O.) star, in one semifinal match of the Forty-first Trans-Mississippi Golf tournament here this afternoon, while in the other Jonas Weiss, of Westwood played John Barnum, long-hitting Chicagoan.

Cochran won from Lester Slattery, Meadowbrook, 2 and 1 in their quarter final match this morning; Stranahan defeated Johnny Kraft, Denver, by the same score; Weiss was the third 2 and 1 victor, eliminating Howard Zachritz, Glen Echo, while Barnum defeated Vincent Fehlig, Westborough, 4 and 2.

Barnum shot the most sensational golf. He was even par at nine, making the turn one down to Vincent, who had eight pars and a birdie for a 33. But coming back Barnum turned on the heat, shooting four successive birdies to take a lead which he never relinquished.

Slattery Leads at Turn.

Cochran, too, had to rally on the back nine because Slattery's short game and his putting were in fine order. Les made the turn 2 up with a 32 against Bob's 34, Slattery pitching a shot into the eighth hole from 100 yards off the green for an eagle 3.

But after they played the tenth with poor sixes, Cochran got started and Slattery's game slipped a little. Bob sliced a hole off the lead with a birdie 3 at the twelfth, and then pulled even with a par 3 at the thirteenth. He got his head up for the first time at the fifteenth when Slattery's pitch found a trap.

Bobby birdied the sixteenth and Les barely missed his try for a birdie, and they halved the seventeenth with par 5s.

Weiss played the first nine in 32, too, to lead Zachritz 1 up at that point. Howard squared the match at the eleventh with a birdie 3, but Jonas got back into the lead with a par 3 at the thirteenth. They halved three holes in succession. Zachritz took a six at No. 17 to lose the hole and match to a par 5 for Weiss.

Kraft started with two birdies, a 3 and 2, while Stranahan halved the second with a birdie deuce. They battled on even terms then through eight holes, but Kraft went one up at the ninth when Stranahan's ball got behind a tree and he couldn't hit it.

The youngster came back with a great drive and a birdie four at the long tenth. But once more Kraft went ahead with a birdie three at the eleventh. They halved two holes, then Stranahan sent a great second shot to the pine at the fourteenth for another birdie three to pull even. And, after they halved the fifteenth with par fours, Stranahan birdied the long sixteenth and seventeenth holes, taking four on each to win out, 2 and 1.

On the sidelines, or headed for other parts, were Art Doering, 1940 champion, who was eliminated by Barnum in the third round, yesterday, 2 and 1, and George Dawson, who fell to the excellent short game of Slattery, 4 and 3.

Another victim of an upset was Sidney Salomon, Westwood, who lost to his clubmate, Weiss, 1 down.

AT LEAST A YEAR BEFORE MO. PAC. IS REORGANIZED

Important Step Taken When Court Approves I. C. C. Plan—Creditors to Vote on It.

The Missouri Pacific Railroad system is an important step nearer reorganization as a result of approval yesterday by United States District Judge George H. Moore of the Interstate Commerce Commission's reorganization plan, which would consolidate most of the component companies, sharply reduce capitalization and annual charges, and wipe out present common and preferred stockholders.

It is expected, however, that at least a year will elapse before the system is taken out of trusteeship. Judge Moore will enter a formal judgment approving the plan and will make allowances for services by lawyers, mortgage trustees and committees representing security owners.

The I. C. C. then will distribute ballots among various classes of security owners and other creditors entitled to vote on the plan. If it is approved by creditors holding two-thirds of the amount of claims in each class, the Court will enter a judgment confirming the plan, and it will then be the duty of the reorganization managers to incorporate the new company, distribute new securities as provided in the plan and transfer title to the railroad properties from Trustee Guy A. Thompson to the new company.

Objections Overruled.

In approving the plan, which provides sharp reductions in capitalization and annual charges, Judge Moore overruled objections by various groups of bondholders and stockholders that the plan was unfair to them, chiefly in provisions for proportionate distribution of securities in the reorganized company.

With respect to elimination of present stockholders, Judge Moore said the finding of the I. C. The plan, he found, does not discriminate unfairly against the stockholders in favor of several other classes of interests.

Nova Signed to Meet Louis in September

NEW YORK, June 21 (AP).—Lou Nova, California collegian, today was signed by Promoter Mike Jacobs to meet Champion Joe Louis for the heavyweight boxing title in September.

The site and date will be announced later. Jacobs, in selecting Nova from a long list of challengers, including Billy Conn, pointed out that Lou was the only one of the group that had not had a shot at the title.

Nova staged a great comeback to qualify for the title shot after a year away from the ring because of illness following his defeat by Tony Galento in September, 1939. The Californian returned to competition last fall and, after a warming up bout or so, punched Pat Comiskey all over the ring to win a 10-round decision in Madison Square Garden last January and then knocked out Max Baer for the second time in the eighth round of their April engagement in the Garden.

Ray Carlen, Nova's manager, said Lou would leave soon for the Maine woods, where he will spend several weeks in preliminary training. Louis, showing signs of staleness in knocking out Conn in the thirteenth round last Wednesday, will take things easy for the next two months. Originally, Jacobs planned to throw Abe Simon against the champion next month.

Sly Kitty Scores at Fairmount

By Dent McSkimming

FAIRMOUNT PARK, June 21.—Despite the fact that rain fell hard only a few miles away, the track remained fast and dry as the racing opened here this afternoon. About 8500 fans were on the grounds when Sly Kitty won the first race with Bobby Montgomery up.

NO MORE RACES AT ONE-MILE DISTANCE

There will be no more races at one mile at Fairmount Park in the current meeting.

The spill of Friday in which Jockey Willie Lee Johnson was unseated shortly after the break in a long race brought from the stewards yesterday the order to scratch mile races from the condition book and substitute races of a mile and 70 yards. The reason is that the run to the club house turn from the mile mark is so short that it makes crowding unavoidable and serious spills imminent. The additional straightaway of the mile and 70 yards provides just enough racing room to eliminate jams.

Browns' 16-Hit Attack Beats Red Sox, 13-9

BOSTON, June 21.—A rousing 16-hit attack that included three home runs, a triple and six doubles gave Luke Sewell's Browns a 13-to-9 victory over the Red Sox here this afternoon, squaring the series at one victory for each club.

It's a good thing Bob Harris had a big early lead, for the Sox were coming strong at the finish and routed Harris with a five-run outburst in the seventh, but Bob Muncrief pitched effectively in relief, checking Boston in the last two rounds.

The Browns knocked the veteran Lefty Grove out of the box in two innings, scoring two runs in the first and four more in the second, and also found the offerings of Jack Wilson and Emerson Dickman no puzzle. McQuinn, Judnich and Laabs hit homers, but Clift drove in four runs with two doubles and a triple.

WHIRLAWAY ADDS DWYER

NEW YORK, June 21 (AP).—Whirlaway, Warren Wright's triple crown winner, today easily won the $10,000 Dwyer Stakes at Aqueduct with Mrs. Louise Tufano's Market Wise second and J. F. Byers' Robert Morris third in the field of four three-year-olds.

Whirlaway won by a length. Market Wise was three lengths in front of Robert Morris. William Woodward's Greville brought up the rear, 10 lengths farther back.

Whirlaway covered the mile and a quarter in 2:03 2-5, a record for the stake, and only two-fifths of a second off the track record set by Isolator.

Whirlaway was held last by Eddie Arcaro until the field was half way through the back stretch. Then he moved up to third, and, going 'round the stretch turn, he passed the others to go in front. He bore out somewhat in the stretch, but was awarded the victory, despite a claim of foul by Basil James, who piloted Market Wise.

Top-weighted at 126, compared to the 122 for Market Wise, 119 for Robert Morris and 116 for Greville, Whirlaway returned $2.40 for each $2 win ticket.

The victory was worth $8075 to the owner of the Kentucky cannonball, bringing his all-time earnings to $244,186.

SLAUGHTER BATS IN TWO RUNS, MIZE ONE OFF BILL LOHRMAN

By J. Roy Stockton

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, June 21.—Ernie White, whose work for the Cardinals has included some brilliant pitching this spring, was on the hill against the Giants this afternoon in the second game of the series which will be concluded with a doubleheader tomorrow. White, who has won three and lost two, was opposed by Bill Lohrman, whose record is three victories and four defeats.

Manager Southworth rearranged his lineup in the hope of bolstering his attack. Mesner returned to duty at third base and Padgett was the catcher.

It was Ladies' day and about 3500 women were in the crowd of about 8000, which also included soldiers and boys and girls who were guests of the club.

The soldiers included about 500 flying cadets from Parks Air College, guests of Manager Billy Southworth, whose son, Billy, was a cadet at Parks until last March, when hec ompleted his training there and was transferred to Randolph Field, Tex. He is now stationed at Brooks Field, Tex.

A heavy shower of rain that fell about noon filled the dugouts and soaked the field where it was unprotected by tarpaulin. There were still puddles in foul territory when play started.

Barr, Sears and Jorda were the umpires.

Harris Tosses Discuss 174 Feet, 8 3-4 Inches for New Mark

Shatters Record by Six Inches

More New Standards Are Expected Today When Athletes From 53 Schools Compete.

PALO ALTO, Cal., June 21 (AP).—Girded for record shattering performances, 200 of the finest athletes in America ring down the curtain today on the 1941 track and field season with the big meet of the year—the national collegite championships.

With one world mark already placed in the discard in yesterday's qualifying trials—a tremendous discus throw by Indiana's Negro star, Archie Harris—today's finals brought together representatives from 53 schools in Stanford University's great sports stadium.

Harris' mighty effort with the heavy platter measured 174 feet 8¾ inches. The recognized world record is held by Germany's Willi Schroder—174 feet 2½ inches, set in 1935.

Spectacular as Harris' achievement was, more thrills were expected today. Champions back to defend their 1940 laurels were Norwood Ewell of Penn State. The 1940 sprint king; Indiana's Campbell Kane in the 880; Al Blozis of Georgetown in the shot put; California's Marein Biles in the javelin; Johnny Wilson of U. S. C., co-champion in the high jump; and Harris, given another chance to outdo his own efforts of the trials yesterday.

The quarter-mile run promised another battle, pitting Grover Klemmer of California against a field that included Hubert Kerns of U. S. C., Bill Lyda of Oklahoma, Bob Smith of Washington, Harold Bogrow of New York U., Gene Littler of Nebraska and others.

Individual star of the meet was Louisiana State's one man track team, Lanky Billy Brown. Runner-up in broad jump, Brown placed in that event as well as in the two sprints.

Ohio state's great high hurdler, Bob Wright, had a strong field against him today, but was expected to win.

Center of attention in the high jump was Les Steers of Oregon, the lad who startled the sports world with a leap of 6 feet 11 inches last Tuesday and who hoped to reach the seven-foot mark today.

Misfortune dogged several performers. Bob Peoples of U. S. C., the great javelin thrower in the country two years ago, may have taken his last fling yesterday when he qualified with 212 feet ⅝ inch. He reinjured his sore arm and said he would let that mark ride through the finals. He leaves for military service tomorrow.

Texas lost its best sprinter when Little Carleton Terry, hampered by illness for several weeks, missed out in the qualifying. He had been expected to give Elwell and the rest a hard run.

Benny McCoy to Join Army Next Friday

PHILADELPHIA, June 21 (AP).—Benny McCoy, the Athletics' $65,000 second baseman, disclosed yesterday he will report next Friday for induction into the United States army instead of waiting for the required induction date late in July.

McCoy, whose appeal for deferment was rejected by the Grand Rapids (Mich.) draft board, will play his final games against the Chicago White Sox today and tomorrow.

WRAY'S COLUMN

No Shortage of Imported Cheeses.

YOU may have been worrying about the impending shortage of camembert, gorgonzola and other imported cheeses. . . . However, there is at least one consignment en route to this country from India.

This queso is described as a giant Hindu wrestler who has never been defeated. . . . He is going to tear things apart in this country and restore the good old days of Frank Gotch. . . . That is to say, the period when only four-fifths of the country believed wrestling was crooked. (It's nine-tenths today, many believe.)

* * *

Just what the Hindu can do to undo all that the wrestling vaudevillains have done to create the existing unfavorable impression we can't guess. . . . But even if he were the mighty Gama himself—the Hindu who pitched the elder Zbyszko to defeat in one minute—most of us would still believe that he is come to put on a show and not a contest.

You can't expect to clean up a dirty face with a lipstick and a powder puff. . . . Wrestling will have to undergo a housecleaning from top to bottom to get rid of the termites that have been sapping it, before it can be declared sanitary.

Ole Marsh in the Limelight Once More.

THE man who is going to start whitewashing the sepulcher by importing the Hindu is none other than Ole Marsh, himself a wrestler in the long ago, one who finally wound up in the hoosegow for acts deemed contrary to the law.

That was in the good old days of "honest wrestling." . . . Since that misfortune Marsh has been campaigning against the monopolists of the mat. . . . He began by trying to obtain recognition for Marin Plestina, a fine, husky, defensive wrestler.

Marsh interested Bernarr McFadden in his athlete and McFadden, through one of his publications, offered the champion of the day, Ed Lewis, $25,000 to get into the ring with Plestina. . . . Billy Sandow, then Lewis' manager, sidestepped. . . . He countered with Marsh's record. . . . And did not then let his wrestler meet Plestina.

Marsh finally gave up the struggle and Plestina joined the "one big happy family" of the major wrestling circus. . . . He played dead whenever he had to. And he never became the top-ranking figure his great defensive power warranted.

Marsh, embittered, has kept up the war ever since. . . . But not with any great success. . . . He even seems to have tried to crash the group of those controlling present-day wrestling. . . . But he apparently hasn't made the grade. . . . He still writes letters putting them on the pan.

Marsh's Marvel

Now We Know What "Boiling Out" Means

FROM Hot Springs comes word that Wrestler Ralph Ruffy Silverstein is OK again. . . . He went there to "boil out," as the expression goes. . . . In Ruffy's case it was to boil out boils. . . . They had forced him to call off a match with Bronko Nagurski, who was some sort of champion as wrestling goes.

Boils seem inseparable from wrestling and wrestlers. . . . In Ruffy's case they have been positively amazing. . . . Job of the Scriptures was supposed to be the all-time boil champion. . . . But after reading one paragraph in a letter from Ed White, Ruffy's manager, we know different. . . . Ruffy must literally have boiled over . . . Hark to Mr. White broadcasting:

"Every match Ruffy had in St. Louis beginning with Emil Dusek found Ruffy suffering from boils. . . . When he wrestled Reuben Wright he had 26 boils by actual count covering his right knee and half a dozen on his left knee." (N. B.—He had to pray standing up, probably.)

The Boil Business Comes to a Head.

IT seems, however, that matters went from bad to worse and that by the time the Nagurski match was scheduled the boil enemy was attacking Ruffy over a wide front. He gave in and yielded to reason. . . . The match was postponed.

"So I turned the match down," White carries on. . . . "Tom Packs tried to induce me to let Ruffy wrestle, but I stood pat and refused, although it was a 10-to-1 shot that Ruffy would have no difficulty beating Nagurski, boils or no boils."

Which seems to make the Bronko look pretty bad, as had been suspected. . . . Or maybe it's the boils that make Ruffy good. . . . A guy that can win a match with 26 boils on one knee and six on the other ought to go in for more and bigger boils. . . . He'd be colossal. . . . Just like Manager Ed's letter.

Slattery Loses To Cochran, 2-1

ple for two days broke loose all at once and stars fell all over the place.

Dawson had no excuses for his loss to Slattery. He said that he knew the minute he played the course that he would have trouble and his experience proved he was right.

"I sank just one putt of more than five feet all the time I played here," he said, "and you don't do that and stay in tournaments very long."

Cochran came back to his best form to eliminate Percy Gill, Rolla, Mo., assistant football coach to Gale Bullman at the Missouri School of Mines, 3 and 2. Bob wasn't so jittery against Gill as he had been the previous day against Ted Gwin.

Bob was even par going out to make the turn one up and was two under for the remainder of the distance.

Kraft trimmed Chuck Shelden, Miami, Fla., 2 and 1, bearing out the advance notice of his admirers that the physical education director of a Denver junior high school would be tough to beat at Sunset.

Howard Zachritz continued his sensational play. The Glen Echo youngster gave Cochran a battle in the semi-finals of the district two weeks ago, took Jim Black to the final of the Missouri amateur at Kansas City last week and here he is today still in the running after playing some of the greatest golf seen in this tournament.

Howard swamped Glen Oatman, Kansas City, a former State champion, 7 and 5, being two under par. He has not been over par on a hole for two days, having 11 pars and three birdies in the second round and 10 pars and three birdies in the third.

Zachritz went to University City High School with Weiss and learned a lot of golf from the Westwood star at Glen Echo. Jonas helped Howard particularly with his short game and putting.

Vincent Fehlig, Westborough, defeated Elliott Whitbread, of the same club, 2 and 1, to get a crack at Barnum. Vincent, oldest of the three Fehlig brothers entered in the event, is the last to survive and he's playing grand golf in this tournament.

Stranahan won from Joe Switzer Bellerive, 3 and 2 in a hard-fought match and the 18-year-old Toledo boy is considered good enough to give anybody a battle.

Hurls No-Hit Game.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., June 21 (AP).—Herbie Karpel, 20-year-old southpaw from New York City, pitched a no-hit, no-run game for Binghamton in the Class A Eastern Baseball League last night, shutting out Elmira, 2 to 0. Only four men reached first base, all on walks.

Crisler Is Named Athletic Director

ANN ARBOR, Mich., June 20 (AP).—Herbert O. (Fritz) Crisler, University of Michigan football coach since 1938, yesterday was appointed director of athletics to succeed Fielding H. Yost.

Crisler was named to the new position by the university's board of regents, but it was stated that he had been promised the position since February, 1938, when he became football coach.

The regents declined to say what salary Crisler would receive as athletic director. His new responsibilities will officially begin on July 1, the day on which Yost will retire.

Crisler will continue to guide the Wolverine gridiron forces, "probably for several years," he said.

Mort Cooper to Undergo Operation on Arm Monday

By Robert Morrison

It may be whistling in the dark, but the bosses of the amazingly resourceful Cardinals hold high hopes of Morton Cooper returning to action within a month or so of the operation he will have Monday on his injured pitching arm.

Branch Rickey, to whom reporters were referred for the announcement of the decision to operate, said it was possible Cooper would be throwing again within a few weeks after the chipped bone is removed from his elbow.

The club's general manager added that Cooper would not be placed on the voluntary retired list, indicating that the Cardinals will gamble on the chance that the pitcher will regain his winning form of earlier in the season.

Comparing Cooper's injury to similar ones experienced by other pitchers, Rickey said that there was no reason to expect physical complications to follow the operation, but that the mental hazard of favoring the once-injured arm might slow Cooper's comeback.

"Krist had the same thing three years ago," Rickey said, "and it took him more than a year to recover."

Meantime, Manager Billy Southworth, who likewise believed Cooper could be back pitching after a month, said his first line of mound strength would be Lon Warneke, Harry Gumbert, Max Lanier and Ernie White.

Lon was doing all right, and the Cardinals had a 2-1 lead until the eighth inning. Then the Giants hit and Martin Marion missed and there were five more runs in the New York alley on the scoreboard.

The trouble began when Harry Danning hit a home run into the left-field bleachers, but when Ott popped to Eddie Lake for the second out, it didn't look so bad.

Babe Young followed with a double down the right-field line, and after Joe Moore was purposely passed, it still could have been worse. And as a matter of fact, it was.

Jurges Gets Lucky Double.

Bill Jurges, next man up, sent a fast grounder toward Marion. The Cardinal shortstop didn't stoop quite far enough and the ball went untouched beneath his glove, through his legs and on to the outfield for a double, scoring Young with the run that gave the Giants a 3-2 lead.

Passing Whitehead intentionally, Warneke wanted to get at the Giant hurler, Rookie Bob Carpenter, but in this instance Carpenter was no person to get at. He dropped a single over the racing Marion's head and who should cross the plate but Moore and Jurges.

So Warneke yielded the mound to Sam Nahem, who got the third out but not until Bartell's single had driven Whitehead across with the fifth run of the inning.

There was little sign of the Redbirds starting one of their famous late rallies. Johnny Mize, once more at first base after being out with an injured finger, got a single in the Cardinal eighth and Pinch Hitter Estel Crabtree doubled with one out in the ninth but the attack fizzled.

The Cardinals, who began the game with four hits and two runs in three innings, went hitless against Carpenter for the next four innings and finished with a total of six. Mize's double scored Hopp in the first frame and Marion, who had singled, counted when Warneke hit into a double play in the second.

Redbirds' Lead Two Games.

The defeat was Warneke's third of the season, as against seven victories, and it was the first for the Cardinals in five games. It narrowed the margin between the Birds and Brooklyn to two games as the Dodgers won yesterday.

The largest night crowd of the season—19,152 customers—saw the Birds lose their first game after dark. Four others had been won by one-run margins.

Old-Time Brown Dead.

GREENFIELD, Ind., June 21 (AP).—Edward L. Hendricks, 84, who caught for the St. Louis Browns in the eighties and nineties, died yesterday. He later was a printer on the St. Louis Globe-Democrat and Post-Dispatch and continued in the trade after moving here. He retired eight years ago. The widow survives.

Don McNeill Is Ousted By Parker

CHICAGO, June 21 (AP).—Frank Parker has set himself up as the man to beat for the national clay courts tennis championship.

The Spring Lake (N. J.) player served up a clew last Sunday by trouncing Don McNeill of Gambier, O., in the final of the St. Louis Triple A tournament. Yesterday, Parker left no doubt about it when he again whipped the national champion, this time to reach the finals of the singles event he won in 1939.

In defeating McNeill, 3-6, 6-0, 6-4, 6-2, Parker also upset Bobby Riggs' hopes for a championship rematch with McNeill, who carried off the title last year.

Riggs, to reach the final, must dispose of Gardnar Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., today. It was the only singles match scheduled, the rest of the program being devoted to doubles play.

The men's and women's singles titles will be decided tomorrow.

Harry Dolan Captures Boys' Novice Net Title

Harry Dolan was today new boy's municipal tennis champion in the novice division, following a 3-6, 6-3, 7-5 victory over Leslie Nackmann on the Jefferson Memorial courts in Forest Park.

TOLEDO, O., June 21 (AP).—Ben Hogan and Jimmy Demaret, top team in the race for the $7000 Inverness invitational golf title, retained the lead through the fifth round today with a plus 5 count as they finished their 18-hole scrap all even with Jimmy Thomson and Byron Nelson, the second-place twosome.

The eight twosomes came up with the greatest par-shattering round in Inverness history as they collected 51 birdies and an eagle on the 18-hole jaunt, giving them 177 birdies and three eagles for five matches.

Lawson Little and Horton Smith and Henry Picard and Johnny Revolta birdied six of the first nine to hit the turn in 29, lowest count ever manufactured in the tourney, while Demaret-Hogan and Lloyd Mangrum and "Jug" McSpaden had 30 on the front nine, each finishing with 63, eight under even figures, to tie for the lead in the race for $200 for best 18-hole score.

Mangrum-McSpaden (63) defeated Sam Byrd and Johnny Bulla (67), four up.

CARBONDALE, Ill., June 21 (AP).—The defending champion and a former titleholder were ousted from the twentieth annual tournament of the Southern Illinois Golf Association yesterday as a pair of rank dark horses led the way into the semifinal round.

One youth was killed and seven other young persons were injured, three seriously, when two automobiles collided at 1:30 o'clock this morning at Page avenue and Woodson road, St. Louis County.

William Creecy, 19-year-old University of Missouri student, died of a skull fracture at County Hospital shortly after the accident. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Julian C. Creecy, 347 Hazel avenue, Webster Groves.

Creecy was a passenger in an automobile driven by Jackson Burrell, 19, who was treated at County Hospital for brain concussion and a skull injury and taken to Lutheran Hospital. Burrell, who was graduated from Webster High School this month, lives at 425 Marion avenue, Webster Groves. His condition is not serious.

Also in the car were Gilbert Jordan, 19, 1351 Grant road, Webster Groves, who is in serious condition at County Hospital with skull and spinal injuries, and Allen Richardson, 15, 225 West Swon avenue, district boys' tennis champion, who was sent home after treatment for a neck injury. The four were returning from a dance at Glen Echo Country Club.

The other car was driven by Anthony J. Kuhn, 19, 2236A Shenandoah avenue, who is in Alexian Brothers' Hospital with a serious skull injury.

Passengers in his car were Eugene Grotegeers, also 19, 2932 Oregon avenue, in a serious condition at Alexian Brothers' Hospital with concussion of the brain and a skull injury; Miss Mary Ann Linek, 16, 3000 California avenue, who was sent home after treatment at County Hospital for a fractured shoulder, and Miss Marie Gillering, also 16, of 2930 Oregon, who was treated for cuts and bruises.

Hotz of St. Clair County. Hotz was attempting to arrest Smith for alleged disturbance of the peace. A hearing will be held Tuesday.

DONNELL SIGNS BILL TO HIKE JOBLESS PAY

Law Gives Workers $3,500,000 More a Year, Saves Employers Like Sum.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 21 (AP).—Gov. Forrest C. Donnell signed today one of the few major measures passed by the Legislature, a bill liberalizing job insurance payments to unemployed workers and reducing payroll taxes on employers.

Senator George A. Rozier of Perryville estimated it would increase insurance payments by $3,500,000 a year and would save employers a like amount in taxes. Rozier and Senator Allen McReynolds of Carthage, co-authors of the original Unemployment Compensation Act of 1937, introduced the bill.

Employers will profit by its exemption from the 3 per cent payroll tax of any part of a worker's annual salary in excess of $3000 and by broadening exemptions granted to certain types of industries.

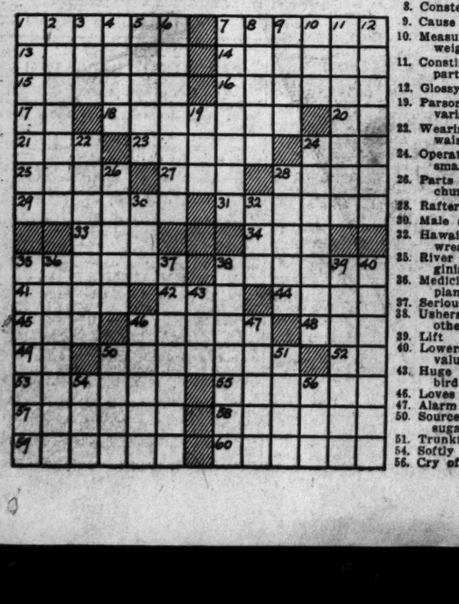

Workers will be able to collect a maximum of $18 a week while unemployed, instead of $15, can collect payments 16 weeks instead of 12, and will have to wait only two weeks instead of three to receive their checks after losing their jobs.

Similar changes were recommended last fall by the Unemployment Compensation Commission because of the rapid growth of the benefit reserve fund from which payments are made.

The fund now exceeds $67,000,000, built to that size in four years by the big excess of tax collections over insurance payments. Last year employers paid about $19,000,000 in taxes, while workers received only about $7,000,000.

The law is effective July 1.

FRENCH REPORT BRITISH DEMAND ON SOMALILAND

Ultimatum Said to Call on Vichy Colony to Join De Gaullists or Be Starved by Blockade.

VICHY, June 21 (AP). — The French said today that the British had sent an ultimatum to French Somaliland demanding that the East African colony join the De Gaullist movement and fight on the British side or be starved out by blockade.

In a double protest to the British through their Madrid embassy and to the American Government through their embassy in Washington, the French declared:

"This ultimatum, without precedent in history, means condemnation to a slow death by famine of a population, living in a land totally uncultivated, with the intention of forcing it to declare a rebellion against the fatherland."

De Gaullist troops have established a garrison at the southern Somaliland frontier between Loyada and Lake Abbe, they said. They charged that planes had been flying over the French territory daily and that secret agents had been active in distributing "Free French" tracts. At the same time a radio propaganda campaign was reported being waged urging French Somaliland, with its important harbor of Jibuti on the Gulf of Aden, to swing over to the De Gaullist cause.

The colony is surrounded by the British-conquered Italian colony of Eritrea, British Somaliland and Ethiopia, now virtually free of Italian rule.

ALEXANDRIA BASE RAIDED BY NAZIS

BERLIN, June 21 (AP).—A strong German air force pounded the British naval base at Alexandria, Egypt, in a new raid last night, the German high command reported today.

Other German forces in North Africa, it said, dispersed British troop concentrations and truck columns in low-altitude attacks near Buqbuq, on the Egyptian coast east of Sollum, and set barracks and fuel depots afire at Tobruk, the besieged British-held Libyan port.

Preliminary reports said vital objectives in the harbor area suffered heavily in the bombing of Alexandria.

German sources asserted at least two large ships were struck in an aerial and artillery attack on Tobruk yesterday.

One British fighter plane was reported shot down and freighters attempting to leave the port were said to have been shelled. Two larger ships on which the Germans claimed hits were said to have been seen turning into the harbor for refuge, at greatly reduced speed.

British Bomb Bengasi and Italian Base in North Africa.

ROME, June 21 (AP).—British planes bombed Bengasi and attacked an Italian air base in North Africa yesterday, the Italian high command reported today. In East Africa, the communique said, "tenacious resistance by our troops is forcing the enemy to undertake burdensome deployments and develop bloody attacks."

British Report Heavy Italian Losses in Ethiopia Battle.

CAIRO, June 21 (AP).—Heavy losses in men and material were inflicted on Italian troops along the Dadessa River in Western Ethiopia, the British Middle East command declared today. A British attack drove the Italians to the west bank of the Dadessa, a tributary of the Blue Nile, the communique said.

TWO KILLED WHEN BOMBER PLANE AND FERRY COLLIDE

TORONTO, June 21 (AP).—A bomber seaplane, taking off, collided with a ferryboat yesterday in Toronto harbor and killed a veteran Norwegian pilot who had joined the British by escaping from his homeland in a German plane which he flew to the Shetland Islands a year ago.

Killed with the pilot, Lieut. Finn Kjos, 29 years old, was a student pilot, Trond Hersvik, 22. No one aboard the ferry was injured.

Another plane, an R. A. F. training craft, was missing in Lake Huron. Aboard were Sergt. J. G. Jones, pilot; Corporal C. D. Bradbury, radio operator; and student navigators J. W. Clarkson and D. C. F. Evans. Bradbury is from Coburg, Ontario, and the others are Britons.

Publisher Monroe Freed.

Publisher James O. Monroe of the Collinsville Herald evened up his latest round with Madison County deputies yesterday when a disorderly conduct charge against him was dismissed on motion of the State's Attorney after a conference with the Sheriff and the two deputies who placed the charge. The case grew out of Monroe's arrest Thursday night on a country road when he was keeping a business appointment.

RELIGIOUS SECT IS DENIED WRIT BARRING ARRESTS

U. S. Judges Rule Jehovah's Witnesses Must Use Illinois Courts First —Methods Criticised.

An injunction sought by Jehovah's Witnesses to prevent their arrest by officers of St. Clair County and Saline County, Ill., was denied yesterday by a three-Judge United States District Court.

The injunction was sought on the ground that the Illinois statute under which Jehovah's Witnesses have been arrested in Belleville and Harrisburg violated the Federal Constitution by denying the rights of freedom of speech, press and assembly to members of this religious sect. The Court, in denying the injunction, did not pass on the constitutionality of the statute.

The Court, composed of Judges Evan A. Evans of Chicago, Walter C. Lindley of Danville and Fred L. Wham of Centralia, in its decision filed with the Federal Court Clerk in East St. Louis, pointed out that the statute in question, the Civil Rights Act of 1871, had not been construed by the Illinois Supreme Court. The statute bars distribution of literature which imputes lack of virtue to any group of citizens, holds any religion up to contempt, or is likely to cause a breach of the peace.

The circumstances in this case, the Court ruled, were not of the exceptional character which would justify interference by the Federal courts when the way remained open for adjudication in the State courts. The decision pointed out that 23 members of the sect had made no effort to obtain a decision in Illinois courts in these cases since June 30 of last year, and three fined at Harrisburg had filed appeals but not pressed them.

Should the decision of the Illinois courts in these cases be unsatisfactory to the Jehovah's Witnesses, the Court pointed out, a review of the Federal questions presented would then be available.

The Court held that the officers named as defendants had acted in good faith and had reasonable ground to believe that riots, assaults and breaches of the peace might occur had members of the sect been permitted to distribute their pamphlets.

At another point the Court said: "It does not appear it is essential for the plaintiffs to distribute literature which belabors existing churches and their leaders with defamatory charges and epithets in order to perform their ministry."

The injunction suit was filed last January and a hearing was held at Danville in February.

Belleville's new Chief of Police, Eugene LePere, said today the order of the former police chief to arrest Jehovah's Witnesses on sight was rescinded and that they would be permitted to carry on their activities, unless disturbances resulted.

MORE SABOTAGE CONVICTIONS

NEWARK, N. J., June 21 (AP).—Five officers and two seamen were convicted last night of sabotaging the Italian freighter Arsa, the second similar conviction of Italian seamen in Federal Court this week.

The convictions, as in the previous case of 10 seamen from the freighter Aussa, carry possible maximum sentences of 20 years each or $10,000 fines, or both.

COTTON BELT LINE AUTHORIZED TO BUILD 500 FREIGHT CARS

Authority to construct 500 freight cars costing a total of $1,748,500 for use in the national defense program was obtained today by Berryman Henwood, trustee of the Cotton Belt Railroad, from United States District Judge Charles B. Davis.

Henwood said the expenditure was in co-operation with the program of the Association of American Railroads to increase the number of freight cars by 120,000 to a total of 1,800,000 to meet requirements of the defense program in 1942.

Leave Picket Line to Load Army Truck

Striking AFL iron workers today left a picket line to load this army truck with completed materials at the Spuck Iron & Foundry Co., 3145 North 14th street. The plant has been closed since May 26 by the strike. The action came after the union's business agent received a telegram from an officer of the Army Quartermaster Corps at Columbus, O., asking if the union would "consider" releasing 12 steel casings for powder magazine doors needed for the proving grounds at Madison, Ind.

ROBOT MAN WHO CAUGHT TWO SPIES

Al Blake (right), a former yoeman in the U. S. Navy, who posed in Los Angeles store windows as "Keeno, King of the Robots," was credited with causing the arrest of two Japanese spies, Toraichi Kono and Itaru Tatibana, a lieutenant commander of the Japanese navy. The Japanese had hired Blake to obtain naval secrets. He immediately notified Naval Intelligence and worked with them until evidence was obtained for their arrest. Tatibana yesterday was permitted to "voluntarily deport himself from the United States." Kono still is held.

UNDERPASS FOR RIDERS

Two equestrian underpasses, to enable horsemen of hunting and riding organizations to ride under the new superhighway without dismounting, have been completed in the stretch between Clayton and Ladue roads. The crossings are similar to that under the Express Highway in Forest Park. The Clayton road underpass cost $10,276, that near Lay road $11,260. Growing Child Enjoys Snack In Afternoon

By Angelo Patri

THE neighbors' houses are always attractive for the children of any home. They are curious about the people who live in them, what they do and say, and, in particular, what they eat. Food has a fascination for growing children.

Mothers are strict about diet, so that many things the children like are forbidden or doled out stingily. "Just a little bit, mind. Not too much of that cheese. It isn't good for you. Too heavy with your meal. You have had plenty of protein."

Protein has no meaning, but cheese—sharp, tangy, mouth-filling cheese—has plenty of meaning. Sweets, too. "Go easy. One piece. No more. You can have another piece after dinner if you eat your vegetables."

And the delicious fried things that come out of a kettle of smoking fat. How good they taste to the child. But mother says, "No, no. Hot things like that are indigestible. I never allow you to eat fried foods. Have a cooky."

These restrictions are necessary and wise, but the children are restless under them and if they have the opportunity, as visitors in the home of a neighbor, well, they'd be strange children if they did not take advantage of the opportunity. They often do. Many a stay-late child is taking advantage of just that kind of hospitality.

* * *

"Oh, I stopped to talk to Freddy."

"Who's Freddy?"

"A boy in my class. Nice fellow."

"Where does he live?"

"Down in the village."

"Well, better not get into the habit of visiting him. We're waiting for you at home, and you have plenty of friends right here in your own neighborhood without going so far for them. You've been neglecting Horace. His mother seems to feel that way."

But Joe continued to visit Freddy. His mother continued to complain. If she had looked into the kitchen where Joe and Freddy sat happily eating hot doughnuts, fresh from the seething pot, and drinking cocoa to wash them down, she would have understood better what was going on.

* * *

Joe liked Freddy's house better in the afternoon than he did his own. In Freddy's house you went straight to the kitchen, and began on the doughnuts or fritters or cup cakes. They appeared on your plate as fast as you made them disappear, and nobody as much as reminded you to take your elbows down.

At home, the house was polished, still, and just so. There was no place to go for a jolly meal. The next meal would be served at 7 o'clock, according to the home ritual. One might have a cooky, by asking for it politely, and a glass of milk if there was any left after making dessert. One had to be very hungry to think of it, much less to go after it.

Isn't there a wholesome middle way?

Random Harvest -:- By James Hilton

CHAPTER 35.

BUT today, the eleventh of November, 1918, drivers and conductors chatted boisterously as if they were in no hurry at all, and passed cheery remarks to the couple who sat on the marble-topped table in the window alcove. They could see the man was a soldier by his great-coat, and it was a good day for saying cheery things to soldiers. "Wonder 'ow long it'll take to git the rest of you boys home, mate?" . . . "Maybe they'll march 'em to Berlin now and shoot the old Kaiser." . . . "Seems queer to 'ave the war end up like this—right on the dot, as you might say." . . . "Wouldn't surprise me if it's just a rumor, like them Russians comin' through." . . . "But it's all in the papers, see—it sez the Germans 'ave signed a what's-a-name—means peace, don't it?" All this and much else in snatches of news and comment.

The proprietor always answered: "You're right there, mister"—"That's just what I always said meself," or, if the remark had been especially emphatic: "You 'it the nail straight on the 'ead that time, mister."

Towards noon the fog grew very thick indeed and drivers reported crowds still increasing at the busy centers; work people had been sent home from offices and factories, as well as children from all the schools. Then the trams stopped running, impeded by fog and crowds equally, and as there were no more customers at the Coronation Cafe, the proprietor set to work behind his counter polishing a large tea urn till it glowed in the gloom like a copper sun. Presently he came over to the table. He was a little man, pale-faced, bald, with watery eyes and a drooping mustache.

"Wouldn't you two like a bite o' somethin'?"

The girl looked to her companion, saw him frame a word and then begin to struggle with it; she intervened quickly: "Sounds a good idea. What have you got?"

"That's the ticket. That's 'ow I like 'em meself. And two more coffees?"

"Righto."

"That's a fact, so bring those coffees quick."

He went away chuckling; then the girl leaned across the table and said: "Don't look so scared. He won't bite."

"I know. But I'm always like that with strangers—at first. And besides—I don't think I've enough money."

"Well, who cares about that? I have."

"But"——

"Now don't start being the gentleman. You were telling me about yourself when that fellow came up. Go on with the story." He stared at her rather blankly till she added: "Unless you'd rather not. Your mind's on something else, I can see."

"I'd just noticed that sign outside." He pointed through the window to a board overhanging the pavement above the cafe doorway—the words "Good Pull-Up for Carmen" were dimly readable through the fog. "Carmen," he muttered. "That gives me something—why, yes . . . Melba."

"Melba? Oh, you mean the opera?" She began to laugh. "And Melba gives me peaches. What is this—a game?"

"Sort of. I have to keep on doing it, one of the doctors says—part of his treatment. You see, I've lost my memory about certain things. It's like being blind and having to feel around for shapes and sizes."

* * *

"I'M terribly sorry. I didn't realize or I wouldn't have laughed."

"Oh, that's all right—I'd rather you laugh. I wish everybody would laugh . . . Now what was it you were asking me before?"

"Well, I was wondering why you had to be in a hospital at all, but now, of course, I understand."

"Yes—till I get thoroughly better. I daresay I will—eventually."

"And then your memory'll come back?"

"That's what they think."

"But in the meantime what are you going to do?"

"Just wait around till it happens, I suppose."

"Isn't there some way of tracing any of your relatives and friends? Advertising for them, or something like that?"

"They've tried. Some people did come to see me at the hospital once, but—I wasn't their son."

"I'll bet they were disappointed. You'd make a nice son for somebody."

"Well, I was disappointed too. I'd like to have belonged to them—to have had a home somewhere." He then gave her some of the facts he had written out for the doctors—that he had been blown up by a shell during 1917, and that when he recovered consciousness he was in a German hospital somewhere, unidentified and unidentifiable. Later there had been an exchange of wounded and shell-shocked prisoners through Switzerland, and by this means the problem had been passed on to the English—but with no more success. He had been a pretty bad case at first, with loss of speech and muscular co-ordination, but those things had gradually returned—and perhaps the memory would follow later. Altogether he had spent over a year in various hospitals, of which he liked the one at Melbury least of all. "Mind you," he added, seizing the chance to say what he thought of saying before, "I'm miles better than some of the others. You'd think so too if you saw them."

"And that's why you shouldn't see them at all. Doesn't exactly help you, does it?"

The proprietor, coming up with the coffee and eggs, saw them break off their conversation suddenly. "Gettin' a bit dark in 'ere—I'll give yer a light," he murmured, to satisfy a dawning curiosity. Standing on a bench he pulled the chain under a single incandescent burner in the middle of the ceiling; it sent a pale greenish glow over their faces. He stared at them both. "You don't look so chirpy, mite. Feelin' bad?"

"He's just tired, that's all. And then, to get the fellow out: "Bring a packet of cigarettes, will you?"

When he had gone she leaned across. "That's what you were trying to ask for in the shop, wasn't it?"

"Oh, come, I know what you need more than you do yourself. Don't be scared of that little chap—he means all right."

The proprietor returned to their table with the cigarettes. "Looks to me as if 'e might 'ave the flu, miss. Lots of flu' abart 'ere. Dyin' like flies, they was, up at the 'orspital a few weeks ago."

When he had gone again she comforted: "There now, don't worry. If you don't like it here, let's eat and then we'll be off."

"It isn't that I don't like it, only—only I'd rather them not come after me, that's all."

"Why should they?"

"He mentioned the hospital. He knows I'm from there, just as you did when you first saw me. It's in my face—the way I look at people. I haven't a chance—even if I knew where to go. They come round the wards every night at six. If I get back by then there'll be no trouble."

"Oh, don't talk like that."

"But you have. I'm grateful. Maybe I'll be more satisfied now, because I shall know I'm not really well enough to be on my own—yet."

They ate in silence for a few moments after that; then she went up to the counter and paid the bill. "One and tenpence, miss. Can't make it any more or I would. An' if I were you, I'd get your pal 'ome pretty quick. 'E don't look as if 'e ought to be aht, an' that's a fact."

A moment later the fog was curling round them in swatches, fanning the sound of cheers over distant invisible roofs. She took his arm again as they walked to the next corner, then turned through quiet residential roads away from the center of the town. But at one place jubilant householders were dancing round a bonfire, and to avoid passing through the blaze of light they made a second detour, along alleys that twisted more and more confusingly till, with a sudden rush of sound, they were back in the main street, caught in a madder, wilder throng. Already the war had been over for several hours and the first shock of exultation was yielding to a hysteria that disguised an anti-climax. The war was over . . . but now what?

* * *

THE dead were still dead; no miracle of human signature could restore limbs and sight and sanity; the grinding hardships of those four years could not be wiped out by a headline. Emotions were numb, were to remain half-numbed for a decade, and relief that might have eased them could come no nearer than a fret to the nerves. A few things were done, symbolically; men climbed street lamps to team away the shades that had darkened them since the first air raids in human history; shop windows suddenly blazed out with new globes in long-empty sockets. The traffic center at Melbury was like a hundred others in and around London that day; the crowds, the noise, the light, the fog. Beyond a certain limit of expression there was nothing to say, nothing much even to do; yet the urge to say and to do was self-torturing. So, as the day and the night wore on, throngs were swayed by sharp caprices—hoisting shoulder-high some chance-passing soldier on leave, smashing the windows of tradesmen rumored to have profiteered, making a fire of placards that proclaimed slogans for winning the now-extinct war, booing the harassed police who tried to keep such fires in check. From cheers to jeers, from applause to anger, were but a finger touch of difference in the play of events on taut nerves.

Presently a girl summoning help for a soldier in hospital uniform who had fainted provided a new thrill—compassion; within a few seconds the crowd was entirely swept by it, pressing in with cries of pity, indignation, and advice to do this and that.

"Give 'im air! Keep back there! Pick 'im up and carry 'im inside—I got some whisky—give the poor chap a nip. . . . No, 'e shouldn't 'ave no alco'ol, not without a doctor. . . . Phone the 'orspital, they'll send an amberlance. . . Lawrd, I wouldn't let 'im go there if 'e was my boy—they kill 'em, that's what they do up there."

Presently a few men carried the soldier from the pavement into a grocery, whose owner nervously unbarred his front doors to repeated knockings. Inside the shop the stream of advice would have continued indefinitely, but for the girl, who kept saying she would take him home.

"I'll get a doctor when he's home."

"Where's 'e live?"

"Not far away."

"No, he's all right—just fainted, that's all. See, he's coming round now—if I can get him home"——

Continued Monday.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT—By Ripley

In 1631, King Louis XIII addressed a letter to Sultan Amurath IV of Turkey, suggesting the mutual exchange of prisoners and slaves. Due to the war then going on, the letter was stopped enroute. It was found in a Turkish Chancellory in Asia Minor in 1910, and was then, with great promptitude, delivered to Mohammed V, after a delay of 279 years.

Patient Who Has an Excess Of Vitamins

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

I FOUND my old friend, Dr. Adrian Gibbs, puttering around in his laboratory the other day in the midst of an unholy mess. He had installed a stove and seemed to be taking lessons in cooking, surrounded by many charts and highly interesting pictures of foodstuffs.

"I am having a very hard time," he confessed, "and I am afraid to call for help for fear public opinion will decide to ostracize me."

He looked at me quizzically and then decided to go on.

"One of my patients is over-vitaminized. I have been trying to get up a diet for her that has no vitamins in it. It's an awful job. All the foods I can find have some kind of vitamins or other in them and I am having quite a tough time getting up a list that is calculated to allow her to reduce the vitamin content of her blood.

"She got infected a little while ago with the vitamin idea and she went after all the re-enforced foods and vitamin-concentrated products. She acquired so much pep that she has had two fights with her son-in-law, and he left his wife; her husband is on a vacation of indefinite length; she started a row in the woman's auxiliary which resulted in the resignation of half the membership; she ran her car into a tree, and in order to provide pro-Vitamin A for herself, she drank so much carrot juice that she is now a bright yellow.

* * *

"Her husband and her son-in-law say they will come back if I get her down to normal, but it is going to take lots of study. Temporarily I have her on water, salt, egg white and refined sugar, but that can't go on forever, and I'm scared the sugar refiners will put vitamins in the sugar. I could have had her eat bread, but the millers and bakers have loaded that up with vitamins and I can't find any miller that is making plain flour without vitamins that I can use. You would think they would have two kinds of flour—vitaminized and plain good flour—but they do not seem to have planned for any freedom of choice.

"I went to a food show the other day and I kept saying, 'Show me some of your products that you haven't put extra vitamins in,' but they all said, 'Oh, we don't have that kind of food any more.' How did we all grow up, I wonder, in the days when we didn't have any vitamins?

"I guess the answer to that is right here in my researches, which show that if a person will eat an average diet, he can hardly help getting enough vitamins for his needs. The average American on the average diet gets plenty of vitamins for all preventive purposes."

Smooth Diet for Acid Dyspepsia and Colitis

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

M. W.: "Is it possible for a nervous condition to cause a person to be short of breath? Can injections of gland medicine such as estrogen cause this breathlessness?"

Answer—There is a form of nervousness which causes a feeling that one must take a deep breath every once in a while. Real shortness of breath, however, is not caused by nervousness or any medication such as estrogen. I would suggest that the condition calls for an examination by the doctor.

C. E.: "Is there any harm in eating cloves? Do they dry up the blood?"

Answer—I know of no harm that comes from eating cloves. They are supposed to be good for indigestion.

"Thumbnail" Oysters

IF YOU ASK My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM a girl, age 20, in love with a man of 40. He says he loves me and wants to marry me, but wants me first to be absolutely sure I love him. I want to marry very much because I love children. Do you think I should marry this man of 40, or a boy 21 whom I do not love? D. B. N. M.

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

The man of 40 shows some intelligence in that he at least wants you to feel sure you love him before consenting to marry him, but he would show far more intelligence by fading out of the picture entirely and leaving you to associate with young people your own age. Just because you love children does not mean you must marry the first man who asks you to marry him. The boy 21 is too young to be thinking of marriage and why consider it anyway when you don't love him? Get acquainted with several nice boys in their twenties and in another few years you will probably marry one of them. But first of all forget the man of 40. Think how tiresome it will be when you are 35 or so and still full of life, to be tied down to a man who never wants to put his nose out the house!

Dear Martha Carr:

I AM A BOY, age 17, and pal with a boy one and a half years my junior. Is he too young for me to chum with? I met him when I was a sophomore in high school and we always walked to school together, never had one argument and were the best of friends. This year his brother started going to high and walks along with us and everything is different. I have tried in every way to be friends with this brother, even taught him how to dance, but to no avail. He has gone so far as to tell lies about me to his brother and cause us to have arguments. Then my friend will discover the truth and apologize, but our friendship does not seem the same. I have other friends among the fellows, of course, but none who compares with this one. I had hoped we could always be friends. Can you tell me what to do? BROTHER TROUBLE.

I see no necessity why the younger boy should continue to go along with you two, who are friends, if he continues to make trouble. His brother should lay down the law and tell him that he can walk with you as long as he behaves himself, but that he has become a regular trouble maker and it has to stop. If he behaves, well and good—if not, ostracize him for a while and see if that doesn't do the trick. Most boys your age prefer a boy their own age for a pal, but if this boy is so congenial, I cannot see that the one and one-half years difference matters.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

A WEDDING beginning at the end of the day and running over into the evening hours, always brings up the problem of whether to wear day or evening clothes. This problem naturally concerns men more than women, since women's clothes can very easily fit into either day or evening picture.

Today's letter is from the groom-to-be who wants to know, "Would it matter seriously, do you think, if the men in my wedding wore tuxedos at the church at 5:30? There is a reception at the Country Club after that and as so much of the wedding festivities are taking place in the evening, we wondered whether the tuxedos wouldn't be better than the day suits?"

Correctly speaking, of course, evening dress should not be worn before 6 o'clock. But when, as in your case, the greater part of the wedding celebration is taking place in the evening, I do agree that it is more sensible to appear a half-hour ahead of time in evening dress than to wear day dress throughout the evening. White double-breasted tuxedo coats and black tuxedo trousers would be particularly suited to the combination day-and-evening picture.

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please give a worried mother your opinion about the propriety of a young girl's accepting gifts from several young men friends, when she is seriously encouraging the attentions of a particular young man?

Answer: She must be a very popular young woman who can have a very devoted best boy friend and at the same time have others eager to give her presents. Since it can hardly be possible that this one particular friend is unknown to the others, it seems to me likely that the presents are neither serious in themselves nor evidence of the seriousness of their givers. In which case there would be no harm in her accepting them. Of course, if the presents were of any value and if she were telling each man that he is the only one, there would be a not very pretty name for a young woman like that!

Dear Mrs. Post: We would like to have a housewarming of the parsonage. Should my husband and I both receive, and where are we supposed to stand? Another question is, shall we leave the personal cards on the presents some of the people have sent us for the house?

Answer: Ordinarily a wife receives near the door of entrance and her husband either stands beside her or else mingles with the guests. But in the case of a clergyman, he is so definitely set apart by his congregation, that it would be more suitable that he stand nearest to the door and his wife next to him. Or she might stand elsewhere if she thinks it would be a better position from which to direct people to other parts of the house. Occasionally she might walk about with the guests—particularly to point out where their presents have been placed. About the cards—since they could not very well have been left on any of the things in use, it would be best to remove them all.

My Neighbor Says:

Nicotine sulphate will destroy aphids on rosebushes.

Honeysuckle, delphinium and columbine will attract hummingbirds to your garden.

Brooms and all sweeping brushes should be hung up when not in use. If left standing on the bristles, the bristles get bent and will not do their work.

To remove cigarette stains from brass ash trays, rub the trays with a paste of salt and vinegar. Then wash them well in hot water and soap suds.

Aluminum pots and pans that have become dull or blackened can be cleaned by rubbing them with a cloth dipped in lemon juice. Then rinse well in warm water, and they will look as bright as when new.

When stringing beads or pearls of various sizes place them in order in one of the grooves of a piece of corrugated paper. It will then be much easier to slip them onto the needle.

If chicken prepared for salad is allowed to stand in French dressing for an hour before serving, the flavor of the salad is much improved. Before adding mayonnaise at serving time, drain off French dressing.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

by WYNN

Sunday, June 22

ELIMINATE the causes of friction; relax; store up the old battery; take no chances on the highway—put poise above anger. Week ahead is very active; the successful man and woman will use mental activity before the physical type.

Difference

As in the sphere of intellect, most of us consider ourselves quite well able to handle the problems of emotion—it is the other fellow who needs attention and correction. The reason for this is that we use our own desires as our standard of perfection. We like to compare our emotions with what we want instead of with what we ought to desire—and in some cases these are different.

Your Year Ahead

Your year ahead from today your anniversary accents changes, adjustments, in home, secrets, partnerships, and emotional inner pattern; growth follows. July-January much occupational activity. Danger: now—July 3; April 12-27.

Monday, June 23

ROUND up all strays as early as possible today. Afternoon and evening suggest stepping gracefully around emotional pitfalls; keep the keel of temper level, particularly in business and domestic affairs; avoid quarrels and self-pity.

The Reservoir

Development of talent is not the addition of more talent, but the bringing up into use of what is already in existence. There is a deep philosophical reason for this, for when the subject is thoroughly perceived it is seen that all talent is one; it all exists in a universal reservoir which anyone may tap when he or she is properly prepared to do so. But we must take one step at a time.

Your Year Ahead

Your year ahead brings changes, much action, in occupation, home, and in inner emotional slants, if born on this date. Set ideals straight, push toward them, but not forcibly, avoid friction. Danger: now-July 5; April 14-29.

Tuesday

Economical Menus

By Meta Given

IF there is a member of your family who just won't eat whole wheat bread, there's a new hope for you now. A new bread has just recently appeared on the market which is made with 100 per cent whole wheat, but an entirely different whole wheat. Before being milled into flour, these wheat grains are subjected to a new cleaning process which removes not only the spores, ergot and dust which still clings to the grains after the old-style cleaning, but also the harsh skin or "beeswings," which have no food value and are irritating to some people. The result is a flour which is finer than ordinary whole wheat flour, and a bread almost as fine and quite as light as fine white bread. People who have never learned to like whole wheat bread before eat this new bread for the first time with enthusiasm. It has every bit of the food value, vitamins and minerals, of whole wheat, with none of whole wheat's disadvantages.

Meat Loaf.

One pound ground veal, one pound ground beef, one pound ground pork, one cup fine bread crumbs, two eggs, beaten, one-third cup chopped onion, two teaspoons salt, one-fourth teaspoon dry mustard, one-eighth teaspoon garlic salt, if desired, one-eighth teaspoon paprika, one-half teaspoon black pepper, one-eighth teaspoon celery salt.

Combine the meats thoroughly in a large mixing bowl; then work in the bread crumbs. Beat eggs, add all seasonings, including onion, and mix well. Add to meat and stir or knead until blended. Pack into a buttered bread-loaf pan and unmold onto a flat baking pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for one and one-half hours, or until well done. Makes 8-10 servings.

Note: Unmolding the uncooked loaf and baking it on a flat pan produces a brown crusty surface. However, loaf may be baked in the loaf pan, without unmolding, if preferred.

MENUS FOR SUNDAY.

Breakfast.

Stewed apricots one-third pound dried apricots, sugar; prepared cereal with top milk, two and one-half cups prepared cereal, top milk; whole wheat toast and butter, eight slices whole wheat, butter; broiled pork sausages, one-half pound pork sausages; coffee, four tablespoons coffee (adults only); milk for children.

Daily Food Report in St. Louis

ALL of the berries—blackberries and blueberries—are still fairly high in price. Pie cherries are fairly reasonable, however. Cantaloupes, while still not a best buy, are down in price and watermelons are also reasonable.

Corn on the cob is down some in price and the quality is improved. Peas are among the good vegetable buys.

Dinner.

Meat loaf, recipe already given, serve half; creamed peas and carrots, one pound peas, four carrots, one and one-half cups white sauce; stuffed tomato salad, four medium tomatoes, four branches celery, one small cucumber, lettuce, one-fourth cup mayonnaise; bread and butter, eight slices bread, butter; rice custard with chocolate sauce, one-fourth cup raw rice, one tall tin evaporated milk, one-fourth cup water, two eggs, one-fourth cup sugar, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one teaspoon vanilla, three tablespoons sugar, one square chocolate, one tablespoon butter; iced tea, two teaspoons tea (adults only); milk for children.

Supper.

Egg salad sandwiches, four eggs, one-fourth cup chopped pickle, seasonings, mayonnaise, eight slices bread, butter; cantaloupe wedges, one cantaloupe; lime-ade, two limes, sugar.

Cost for day: About $1.60.

How It Started

By Jean Newton

Shenanigan

It is a mouthfilling colloquialism, an earthy bit savoring of onomatopoeia, a redolent chunk of Americanism that hails, as it should, from Eire.

We have it on good authority, the best, in fact, that shenanigan, signifying evasion, foolery, chaff, is probably from the Irish polysyllabic—count 'em—slonnachuighim meaning "I play tricks, act the fox!"

From the Emeral Isle, the term was transported to California and Yale, converging all over the United States from points East and West.

Player Errs In Bidding an 'Escape' Suit

By Ely Culbertson

GENERALLY speaking, a long and fairly strong trump suit offers greater protection than a no trump contract with only one stopper in the opponents' announced suit. Often, however, the bidding will be such that a clear warning is conveyed against a "run out." Consider the implication of the bidding in today's hand.

North, dealer.

	♠32 ♥KJ10 ♦A82 ♣KQ973
♠AJ84 ♥87532 ♦J6 ♣J10	NORTH WEST EAST SOUTH	♠7 ♥Q64 ♦KQ1093 ♣A542
	♠KQ10965 ♥A9 ♦754 ♣86

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 club	1 diamond	1 spade	Pass
1 no trump	Pass	3 spades	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Double
4 spades	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	Pass	Pass

North, with only a single diamond stopper, feared that his partner would not read this condition and would permit three no trump doubled to stand. Hence, he "ran" to the suit in which South had announced great strength. He soon found that he had escaped a slight accident only to meet a catastrophe.

West opened the jack of diamonds. Declarer went up with the ace and, in a frantic effort to save a trick, led to his heart ace and finessed on a heart return to dummy. East won and cashed two diamonds, West discarding a club.

Now, certain that a ruff and a discard would do declarer no good, even if he chose to take it, East continued with the fourth round of diamonds. Declarer, not having a worthwhile discard to make, ruffed with the spade ten, only to be overruffed by West's jack. West led his remaining club, East won with the ace and returned a club. This, West ruffed with his four of trumps. The trump ace accounted for the fourth setting trick.

The 1100 point penalty was considerably worse than what could have happened at three no trump. At the latter contract East, of course, could have taken four diamond tricks and the club ace, but West never would have taken a single trick except the spade ace and, thus, the penalty would have been only 500 points.

North should have realized that West would not have doubled three no trump unless he was well prepared to "take care of" four spades, the announced "escape suit."

Don't Take My Word for It

Saturday Gleanings

From Mount Vernon: Please give the exact wording of Horace Greeley's "Go west, young man." W. H. B.

Answer: "Go west, young man, and grow up with the country." But it did not originate with Greeley; he borrowed it from John Soule, who first used the expression in 1851 in an article in the Terre Haute Express.

From Kansas City: Please pronounce BOUDOIR. G. R.

Answer: Accent the second syllable. The vowel sound of the second syllable is the short "a" as in carrot. A boudoir, literally, is a place for pouting. Say boodWAR.

From Montana: I voted for Willkie, but I refuse to pronounce AMERICA as he does: "uh-MURR-uh-kuh." W. E. H.

Answer: The correct pronunciation rhymes the second syllable with air, fair, hair, as uh-MAIR-ee-kuh.

From St. Joseph: Is it correct to speak of a "typewritten manuscript"? W. D. H.

Answer: Literally, a manuscript is hand written (from Latin manu, hand, and scriptus). But the word is no longer restricted in meaning.

From Dayton: Please pronounce the name BAGHDAD. M. S.

Answer: Best usage accents the second syllable which has the "ah" sound: bag-DAHD.

Question: Please define and pronounce NAIVE. C. S. L.

G. A. F. in San Francisco heard this LOONY LOGIC on a local newscast: "James Roosevelt will marry his former nurse, the eldest son of the president!"

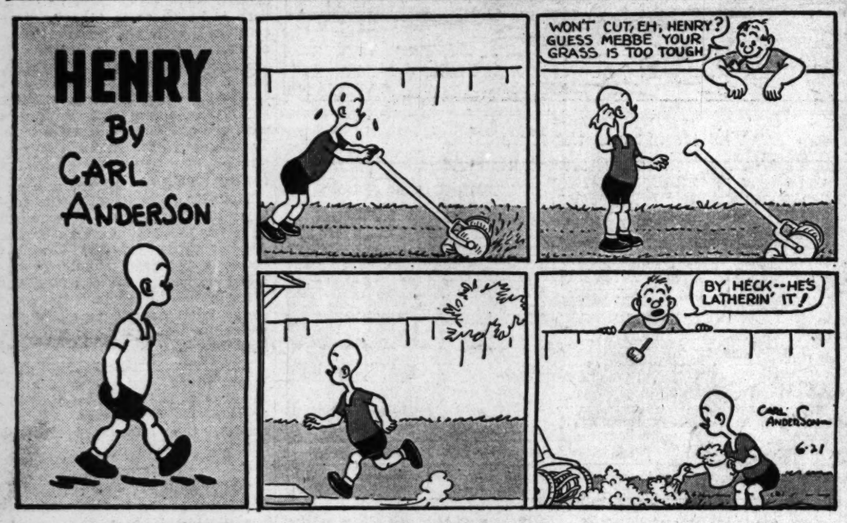

Are you confused about SIT and SET? My free nontechnical key is so simple that even a child will understand. It also settles the age old question, "Does a hen SIT or SET?" Send a stamped (3c), self-addressed envelope to Frank Colby, in care of this paper. Ask for SIT-SET Pamphlet.

"THINK OF A NUMBER!"

HENRY
By Carl Anderson

BILLOPP SAYS:

WHAT, in the opinion of a girl in her teens—and of some girls considerably beyond their teens, for that matter—have the following in common:

A six-months-old baby; an octogenarian; the gift of a box of chocolate or a corsage of gardenias; a handsome football player weighing every bit of 190 pounds?

A puppy; the request of a young man for the hand of a young lady in marriage; an embroidered pillow case; a father who has given a daughter a check to spend as she sees fit; a popular novel; Beethoven's pastoral symphony played by a world-famous orchestra?

Secretary of State Cordell Hull; a new motor car; a male movie star with a full set of teeth, presumably his own; mother's arrangement of flowers in the green bowl in the living room?

A young gentleman's invitation to escort a young lady to a dance; a fireside chat of the President of the United States; a narrow band of black velvet ribbon supporting a bob; the leather belt worn by a non-commissioned officer in the new army?

Winston Churchill with a cigar in his mouth; the one hair that somehow has mysteriously survived on a father's bald head; Hamlet's soliloquy; the family doctor; the bequest of a small mahogany table made in the last will and testament of a great aunt?

If you have conversed with a girl in her teens, and some girls beyond their teens, you must have guessed the answer already. They are, of course, all "real cute."
